

AFTER WAR

Victors are bored, and victims bitterly Bewail the chances that have brought
defeat,
And break their swords, and on a
barren tree
Hang up their harps, and hate the bread they eat,
The conquerors they serve, the im-
potence
Of their weak arms against the brutal
might
Of stronger men, and most, the common sense
That points a calm acceptance of
their plight.

When wars are over, and the struggles cease,
The ugly rage and the dull weariness
Are to the once embattled awful
peace.
Victor and vanquished, in their hearts
confess
That when the bitter truth at last is
said,
The only undefeated are the dead.

—John K. Fineran.

More than ten years have elapsed
since the enactment of the prohibition amendment and except for the
blaze of campaign oratory it occupies a place of as much prominence in
national and state controversy as
when it was the measure of public esteem meted to candidates for public office. The status of prohibition is fixed so far as sentiment is concerned. That was proven in the recent presidential campaign when a wet
was defeated by a dry, although voters differing upon the question were
opposed to each other in that ballot
for a nation's chief. Still this question is unsettled so far as its application to acceptance is concerned
for it seems that too many folks in
this country vote dry and practice
the opposite policy. At least facts
thus far submitted would seem to indicate that not a sufficient number
of people have become reconciled to
the starvation policy imposed upon
their appetites by this noble experiment.

Prohibition is a subject about which
one must write or talk with great care. It is much more safe to proclaim it and violate it, than to attempt a solution of it by conducting
an unbiased examination. The vicious elements of the old controversy
still persist, and one may not expect to discuss it without certain assurance of being both misunderstood
and maligned. That in brief has been one of the contributing causes to the failure of enforcement. Communicants as represented by both sides of
this divergent political faith can neither be reconciled nor brought into
the pale of logic in an effort to adjust this question. To be sure it has already been adjusted as well as settled. One must accept that as an edict from which there is no appeal.
It is only an incorrigible element who oppose it or a palsied element who proclaim it, and what have we? A controversy that overshadows the
gravest issues that have ever faced
a free people—the adjustment of economic life. That prohibition has been a great benefit to the nation no one,
it seems should deny. On the other hand its enforcement has failed in a
large measure and a halting candor
can only serve to confuse and pro-
long an ugly factional difference.
And what have we? A controversy
that threatens to project itself to the
confusion of the major problems of government and statecraft. Out of
the ragings now engrossing the congress will come nothing. To enforce
it against the opinions of a large element of people invites still further strife and even bloodshed and what have we?

The dries have discovered a Turk
152 years of age who has never used intoxicants. The wets counter with
a Chinaman who is 162 years of age
and has been a consistent user of liquor. And what have we? A car
load of malt syrup consisting of nine
thousand cases will make one million
and eighty thousand 'loaves of bread.'
And what have we? A twenty million ballot poll by the Literary Digest
to sound out sentiment after ten
years of constitutional law.

Education has been the desirable
equation for all time for every difference that springs up between man
and man. It has solved and will solve every problem and nothing is
to be gained by evasion or bitterness.
This is said to both sides. It is advice, good or bad, depending on the
side you represent, but it is true.

Austin Etrete Named For Former Cameron Resident, Lou Kemp

A new road leading to the state cemetery in Austin has been named Lou
Kemp Street. Mr. Kemp was born
and reared in Cameron and is known
as Wiltz Kemp.

The honor coming to Mr. Kemp results from his efforts in past years
in finding the graves and having
moved to the state cemeteries bodies
of Texas patriots and historic characters.

Mr. Kemp has conducted an interesting research for the bodies of these
patriots and the naming of this street
which offers access to the cemetery
is in recognition of his services.

BOY SCOUT TRAINING SCHOOL OPENS HERE

FIRST MEETING HELD WEDNES-DAY NIGHT UNDER CHAS.
MEYER

The first session of the Boy Scout Training School for the Heart O'Tex-as Council was held Wednesday evening, March 5 at the Ada Henderson
school. Charlie Meyer, field executive from Temple conducted the meeting. For three consecutive Wednesday nights, March 12, 19 and 26, at 7:30 o'clock, these meetings will be held and then for the next two Sunday afternoons, March 30 and April 6, there will be sessions.

Scout Masters, troop committees,
and troop captains and all men in-

M. C. Fox Buys The Milam County Battery

M. C. Fox has purchased the Milam
County Battery Company from D. K.
Hall and has taken charge of the business.

Mr. Hall recently purchased this business from Mr. Fox but on account
of other interests found he could not
devote as much time as was required
for this business.

The Dayton Rubber Company has
again entered into a contract with M.
C. Fox to sell the Dayton tire. Mr.
Fox is the first dealer in Texas to get
a contract. He is no longer associated with the Hicks Rubber Company
but has a direct factory connection
and is able to sell these great tires
to a better advantage and at correspondingly lower prices because the
jobbers have been eliminated and all dealers have a direct connection with
the factory.

TRENTS AT SKEEZIX

BUSINESS WOMEN TO PRESENT PLAY

PRODUCTION COMPANY TAKES LOCAL TALENT FOR BIG PRODUCTION HERE

Plans for presenting the home-
talent play, 'Aunt Lucia' were completed at the regular monthly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club held Tuesday evening
at the club rooms. Miss Alice Kennedy of Garnet, Kansas, representing
the Universal Production Company
of Fairfield, Iowa, will direct the play
and she is in the city now conducting
rehearsals.

Miss Ann Stallworth presided over
the business meeting Tuesday evening in the absence of the president,
Mrs. Gladys Watson. Refreshments
of salad and hot tea were served, after which a short musical program
was heard. Miss Vetrin Kirk, accompanied by Miss Mary Ellen Manning
sang a solo, and Miss Gladys Jewel
Copus, accompanied by Miss Billy
Gaither, rendered a violin solo.

LOVING CUP FOR PATROLMAN

O. S. HOCKADAY
Supt. of Transmission
Texas Power & Light Co.

P. H. CREEKMORE
Patrolman Lampasas Dist.
Texas Power & Light Co.

P. H. Creekmore of Lampasas, patrolman for the Lampasas patrol district of the Texas Power & Light Co.,
was awarded a loving cup at the annual meeting of employees of the
transmission section of the Power department of the company in Dallas
recently. This award is offered each year to the patrolman who makes the highest score in neatness of substation grounds and in general efficiency.

Mr. Creekmore won the cup in competition with 36 other patrolmen with
a score of 96.75 points out of a possible 100, one of the best scores ever
made by company patrolmen. In addition to having charge of the Lampasas substation Mr. Creekmore also has charge of the company substations at San Saba, Llano, Burnet, Copperas Cove, Evant and Lometa
and also patrols 134 miles of power
lines which serve these cities and towns.

transmission for the Texas Power & Light Co., is presenting the cup to
Mr. Creekmore, on the right.

H. M. Hefley Visits H. M. Hefley; And Both Have Good Laugh Over Singular Acquaintance Incident

The fact that he is a close observer
as well as an astute business man has netted for Henry M. Hefley, vice-president of the First National Bank,
one additional relative, how near or
how far removed no one knows, and
it really doesn't matter.

While looking over his evening paper recently, Mr. Hefley noticed that
H. M. Hefley had purchased and registered an automobile at Waco. Feeling sure that he knew all the Hef-leys in this section, Mr. Hefley decided that the purchaser of the automobile was an impostor using his name.
Therefore, he notified the proper authorities in Waco and awaited results.

He did not have to wait long. There
was a long distance telephone call

from Waco and an indignant voice
came over the wires declaring that
the owner was one Horace Martin Hefley of Norman, Oklahoma, at the present time a professor of Zoology
at Baylor University and that he had bought and paid for the automobile.

HERALD EDITOR TALKS TO STUDENT BODY

PRESENTS INDIAN RELICS AND DISCUSSES NEED FOR IN-TEREST IN FOSSILS

Exhibiting his interesting collection of arrow heads, fossils, Indian
relics and other evidences of early life
in Milam county, J. B. White, editor
of The Herald, spoke to the students
of Yoe High school during the chapel period last Friday morning, holding their attention for more than an hour. Mr. White has spent some time
on expeditions over the county gathering these reminders of the past,
and everything that he has come out
of this county.

During the course of his talk to the students, he explained the significance of certain of his articles and

THE LAY OF A HEN MAKES BIG HIT HERE

CLEVER COMEDY PRESENTED TO POULTRYMEN AT YOE HIGH AUDITORIUM

The cleverest and most interesting
poultry program ever presented in this community was given by C. R.
Fry, poultry specialist of the Purina
Mills, at Yoe High school auditorium
Monday night, March 3.

Instead of the usual dull lecture,
the points were put over very for-
tably in the form of an interesting four
act play, entitled 'The Lay of a Hen.'
The play itself was educational, the
plot being worked out to show how
the average poultry raiser loses money
every year by haphazard methods.

'Lett M. Russell' brought many good laughs from the audience by his

2 Wells Near Complete

(Taylor Press)

With everything looking good around the three new wells optimism
is at its height among the oil fraternity which is confident of at least two new wells this week. The first
one expected to come in is the Chapman-Fuchs No. 1, and this is looked
for Thursday.

The Simms Oil Company's No. 1 on
the Lawrence tract is now down almost 1600 feet, it is understood.
Drilling operations were halted at
noon today and had been since two
o'clock this morning due to the fact
a piece of pipe had become unjointed
and had to be fished out of the hole
with a fishing tool. The piece was drawn to the surface about noon and
everything was being set and drilling
resumed this afternoon. The well is still down in the gumbo strata.

ESSEX CHALLENGER TO MAKE TEST RUN FRIDAY

100 MILE GASOLINE TEST AND POWER TEST TO BE MADE ON NEW MODEL

The Essex Challenger will be presented Friday in a series of tests including a 100 mile gasoline and oil
test by Horstmann Brothers of the Cameron Tire Store.

The car will carry a driver, two observers and a news writer. The trip
will be made from Cameron to the
oil field and return carrying
the party. The car will start from
the Cameron Tire Store at ten o'clock Friday morning.

The run will be made to the oil
fields and return. On the return trip
in the afternoon a power test will be made on Knob Hill near Rogers, one
of the most difficult grades in the state. In addition to this and the gasoline and oil test a brake test will
be made and also an acceleration
test. The facts certified to by witnesses will be published next week
and the showing will be of interest.

The test is made in conjunction with the national Essex Challenger
Week and will present the new car
at its best in actual road service.

The New Essex for 1930 is a new
car throughout and incorporates some
of the most outstanding achievements known to the industry. The results of this test will be revelation of the new car and Horstmann
Brothers invites you to watch for the facts as given by competent observers.

Gene Smith Buys Bluebonnet Cafe

Gene Smith, proprietor of the Newport Cafe and City Marshal-elect of Cameron has purchased the Blue-
bonnet Cafe from D. Fikes. The deal was closed on Thursday according to Mr. Smith.

The kitchen and a large portion of
the Cafe was recently destroyed by fire. The cafe is now being restored
and will be made into a modern cafe
again. The cafe will be opened some time during this month. It is understood Mr. Smith will close the Newport and move his cafe interests to the new location.

Sirene Alarm For Coleman Ambulance

The ambulance of the Coleman-Ep-
len funeral home has been equipped with a sirene alarm. The sirene has been placed on the ambulance at considerable expense to the firm.

The people of Cameron will be glad
to cooperate with the drivers of their
big motor because emergency calls
are very often made and right of way
should be given. Traffic should always make way for this ambulance
and the sirene alarm will always herald the coming of the ambulance.

WILL SPEAK HERE

An unusual opportunity for Cameron will be presented next Thursday
at the regular meeting of the Parent
Teachers Association. Mrs. C. J.
Sharborough of Austin will give an address on 'Pre-School Psychoiogy'.
She has made a special study of this interesting subject at the University and the local association is pleased to have her present the subject here.

POWER COMPANY IS OFFERING STOCK

TEXAS-LOUISIANA POWER COM-PANY AGAIN OFFERS 7% PREFERRED STOCK

Announcement was made today by

cent Preferred Stock of the latter
Company is now available and an opportunity to become partners in this Texas utility will be offered to the citizens of Cameron.

This security was offered to customers of the Company for the first time last year, at which time a number of shares were sold to customers
in Texas. These shares are $100.00
par value, 7 per cent Cumulative Pre-

April, July and October.

The stock will be sold through lo-

Utilities Company either for cash or
on a convenient savings plan. Thru
the latter plan the customer can purchase stock by paying $10.00 down
and $10.00 per share each month and
receive 7% interest in these payments from the date they are made
until the stock is paid for in full,
when the stockholder received his
certificate and interest check, less the
adjustment of dividend.

Millions of dollars of the securities
of the Texas-Louisiana Power Company has been distributed in the financial markets of the country. During the last year the Company adopt-

the communities it serves to become stockholders also, and to share in the
earnings of this rapidly growing business.

The Texas-Louisiana Power Company is well known in Texas, where
the major portion of its business is conducted, as well as in New Mexico,
Arizona, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Kentucky. One hundred and seventy-
eight growing towns in these states
are served with one or in some instances all of the following services.
water, electricity, gas, ice or transportation.

Diversified agriculture, oil production, mining, lumber developments
and industrial activities all contribute to the substantial character of
the territory and combined with the rapid growth of the Southwest assure

Mississippi Lady Says She Felt
Stronger, Better After Taking Cardui.

Greenwood, Miss.—Mrs. W. D. Taylor, of 1313 Carrollton Avenue, this city, has written of her use of Cardui as follows:

"About five years ago, I was in ill health. I suffered a great deal of pain in my sides and in the lower part of my body. I was weak and nervous, and at the least noise I felt like I must scream."

"At times I would have to go to bed. My head would ache. It would take me three or four days to get over these spells."

"A friend told me to take Cardui, which I did. After my first bottle, I saw some improvement. When I had taken three bottles, I felt stronger and better than I had in some time. I did not have any more of those bad spells."

"I certainly recommend Cardui." "Thousands of other women recommend Cardui, after having found it of valuable assistance to them in building up their health."

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine, and contains nothing harmful. The medicinal value of the herbs from which Cardui is extracted have been well-known in the history of medicine for more than six hundred years.

Baptist Women To Meet In Cameron Monday, March 10

The Women's Auxiliary of the Milam County Baptist Association met in their regular monthly meeting, with the Walker's Creek church Monday, March 3, 1930. There were about 50 women from over the county who attended this meeting.

It was voted to have an all day Associational study course, meeting with the First Baptist church of Cameron Monday, March 10, 1930. Mrs. J. C. Martin of Cameron will teach the booklet 'Things We Should Know,' and it is earnestly hoped and expected that there will be a good representation for this study. Please plan now to be on hand Monday morning at ten o'clock. Each woman is asked to bring a light lunch with her.

The women voted, at this meeting, to send the President, Mrs. W. W. Gunn of Cameron, to the State Executive W. M. U. Board meeting to be held at Seminary Hill, March 13 and 14.

There is a fine spirit of co-operation throughout the Association and we are praying and planning for a year of real work for the Master.

CORINTH 4-H CLUB

The Corinth 4-H Club held a club meeting at the Corinth school house February 24, 1930. It was not possible for the County Home Demonstration Agent to be present so Mrs. J. D. Lewis conducted the meeting.

One first year girl cut out an apron. The next brought up their assignment. The gowns and aprons are to be complete and ready to hand in at the next club meeting, which is to be held March 3, 1930.

The club is making rapid progress. The club girls are trying to be 100 per cent on bringing up their assignments. They are also taking the Inventory Guide and the average grade was 63 in the last club meeting.

Essex Challenger Triumphs Where Grenadiers Were Lost

As a feature of Essex Challenger Week this Essex Coupe set out to test its speed, acceleration and brakes on ice, emerging successfully from the difficult test. The ice covered the pond that, legend has it, once swallowed a regiment of British Grenadiers when it was marching over to repel an invasion by hostile Indians more than a century ago. The miniature lake is called 'Grenadier Pond' and is close to Toronto, Ontario.

Students Now Get College Exams In Milam County

From year to year, there are a number of students from the rural schools of Milam County who wish to take up work in San Marcos, Austin, Huntsville, Georgetown, Waco and other nearby schools. As these students do not graduate from accredited high schools, it is frequently necessary for them to spend at least one year in the preparatory school in order that they may enter college.

This is no longer necessary as students may now take the college entrance examinations and be given credit for the high school work done in the home school. These examinations have been held for the past 3 years but there have been very few applicants who have taken the examinations.

This year the County superintendent of Schools is making a special effort to encourage all those who are expecting to study elsewhere during the coming school year. Students will please note the following announcements concerning these examinations.

Time—April 22, 23, 24, 25, 1930.

Fee—One to four examinations, one dollar; four to eight examinations, two dollars; eight to twelve examinations, three dollars; twelve to sixteen examinations, four dollars.

All papers must be sent to Austin for grading.

A Friendly Debate Between A Chiropractor and a Medical Student

M. Medical student of the Iowa State University.

C. Chiropractor, Charles E. Caster, Burlington, Iowa.

Place. On train between Boone and Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

M.—Looking up and smiling friendly.
C.—Howdy? Your face looks familiar. Have you ever lived in B?
M.—No. I am a student at the State University.
C.—So was I.
M.—Been to the ball game?
C.—No. Been too busy as I have been out on a lecture tour.
M.—What is your line?
C.—Chiropractor.
M.—Been out lecturing to Chiropractors?
C.—No. I have been lecturing to the public for the last four days on health.
M.—That is strange; I am a medical student.
C.—That is fine. I am very glad to make your acquaintance as we are in similar lines. Always glad to meet you fellows and have a friendly chat.

M.—You fellows are rather limited in your line, are you not? I know that Chiropractors are good for colds and some nervous troubles, but do they handle very many diseases?

C.—I would not say very limited. We do not handle obstetrical or surgical cases, as they are out of our line. When it comes to other diseases why should we be limited? Of course, though I have had a wide practice over a number of years, I have not had every kind of a case, nor would anyone. Just name some diseases and in that way we will have a common ground to discuss the case.

M.—How about appendicitis?
C.—Well, just what is appendicitis?

M.—Just been studying my diagnosis. Appendicitis is an inflammation of the appendix. The blood vessels become enlarged, swell up and become irritated producing pain, fever and pu.

C.—Good so far, but what is the function of the appendix?
M.—That is something that we do not know.

C.—We do not pretend to be an authority on everything, but there are some things that we can tell about. In the first place you must remember that your methods of study and deductions are very different from ours, as you study the dead body, while we study the live body in action, so we are enabled to look at things from a very different angle than you do. Now for instance, when you people remove the appendix there follows in nearly every case a decided constipation. In cases where there is an involvement of the appendix we find constipation present most of the time. This leads us to believe that the appendix has something to do with the peristalsis or movements of the bowels. Just what the normal function of the appendix is we are not prepared to say positively, but one of two things must take place: Either the appendix secretes a lubricant for the large intestines, or it secretes a substance that acts as a stimulus to the nerve centers of the large intestines producing a movement of the bowels. Now here are some questions for you. Just what is it that causes the appendix to perform its normal function? What directs the action? Through what means is it controlled?

M.—The nerves.
C.—Good, now you have answered your own question, for let us reason it out. You would say then that when it does not act normally there is some trouble with the directing power through the nerves. Now admitting that the next question is, what is the most normal thing to do, cut out the appendix, or correct the interference with the nerve that controls it and directs its action.

M.—The logical thing to do is to correct the nerve, that is if you can find the place where the trouble is on the nerve.

C.—Then why do you people cut it out?
M.—We admit that we can do nothing for the nerves, nor can you.

C.—Why not?
M.—Well, how can you for a certainty find the place where the nerves are involved?

C.—That is easy. We can palpate the vertebrae through which the nerves emit, feel the tender area of the involved nerves, palpate the tender fibres and the taut ones and thus locate the vertebrae involved and we can use an instrument that is just as accurate, sensitive and precise as any instrument that you may use in your profession and determine without any question of doubt where the pressure on the nerves is, thus finding the location we can easily correct the cause. This instrument will go you one better for it will also indicate if we have given the correct adjustment. If you had something in your profession that would diagnose your case, tell you what drug to prescribe and then indicate to you if the medicine was having the desired effect you would then have something near like our NEUROCALOMETER. This pressure being corrected thus allowing the necessary messages to go from the brain to the appendix, directing it to perform its normal function, there will no longer be any abnormal condition or trouble so where will your appendicitis be? Isn't that logical?

M.—Yes, but why does that have to come from the brain and how can you move a vertebra.

C.—Your point is well taken. You people scoffed at us for years for saying we could move a vertebra. You said it was impossible and when the X-ray was discovered we took many spinographs and proved to the scientific world that it could be and is being moved and that it does release the pressure. I can readily see why you people claimed that it could not and I agree with you from your standpoint, because as I remarked before you study the DEAD body while we are dealing with the LIVE body. After death the body becomes stiff and solid and then you can not move a vertebra. BUT THAT IS THE DEAD BODY. Now for the other question, remember that Chiropractic is only about 35 years old, still about 25 years ago we evolved the theory from the study of the live man, that there was a direct connection between every tissue cell, that is every minute part of the body, to the brain cell. One brain cell may control many tissue cells, but there must be a direct connection. You again scoffed at us and ridiculed the idea as preposterous, but let us look into the question. In 1924 your authorities on anatomy, Gray and Cunningham, came out and verified that contention, having traced the direct connection between brain cell and tissue cell, thus showing that Chiropractors were right in their premise and you people were wrong.

M.—We will have to agree to that point, but what about constipation?

C.—Well, what is constipation?
M.—That is when the bowels do not act.

C.—Well, why do they not act?
M.—You may eat something, say cheese and they will not act.

C.—If they were in normal condition why should they not be able to take care of cheese as many eat it and it does not bother them? If that is the cause it should effect everyone the same.

M.—Well, they are not in normal condition.
C.—Right you are, but why are they not in a normal condition?

M.—Don't know how you would answer that.
C.—There are a number of conditions that could involve the bowels.

What if you had a condition in the patient where there was an interference with the nerves that direct the kidney action and they were too active and the skin the same way, throwing out an excessive amount of moisture? In other words you only put in so much water into the system in a day, but for example, say the kidneys throw off six quarts, and the skin four or five pints (which is far too much). That water must come from some place, does it not? Would not the whole body be drawn on to make up that supply and the bowels in particular, thus causing a sluggish movement of the fecal matter in them?

M.—Yes, but couldn't the muscles become weak so they would not act?

C.—Surely, any muscles in the body could become weak. What directs the action of the muscles? What makes them strong or weak? In a paralyzed leg, what makes them weak? They are there but they do not work.

M.—The nerves I guess. Yes, I see back to the nerves again. But isn't the trouble in the muscles?

C.—Yes, surely in the muscles, if you want to put it that way, but what makes the trouble in the muscles? I remember back in high school we made a cat kick with its hind legs after it was dead nine days. The cat was there, the muscles were there, the nerves were there, but there was something lacking because the cat was dead and the vital force of life was missing to make the muscles work.

M.—How did you do it?
C.—We dissected the back of the cat, bared the sciatic nerve and applied an electric current to the nerve, thus furnishing the stimuli to make the muscles in the cat's leg jerk and kick. This proves that without the proper stimulus or controlling force to the nerves the muscles will not work.

M.—Well how can you Chiropractors do anything for a case like that?

C.—You just agreed that there was some trouble with the nerves or the muscles would not act, did you not? The difference between your method and ours is that you worry and fuss a lot over diagnosis to find out what is the matter with a patient and then treat the effect in place of seeking out the cause and adjusting the cause. Even your most prominent men in your profession agree that you are wrong in half of your diagnoses. So being wrong half of the time in your diagnosis or premise your treatment must be wrong in half of the cases to start with. Is it any wonder that you are only able to get about three out of a hundred well?

M.—Not so bad as all of that, is it?
C.—Yes, statistics only give you credit of getting three out of a hundred well, the Osteopaths 17, the Christian Scientists 22, and the Chiropractors are now getting 60 out of a hundred well. Take the statistics for the 'Flu.' You lost one in 18 cases, Osteopaths one in 265, the Christian Scientists one in about 525, the Chiropractors one in 886. Let us analyze those figures; you gave the most medicine, the Osteopaths some, the Christian Scientists none and the Chiropractors none, PLUS ADJUSTMENTS. The more the medicine the surer the death.

M.—That is an eye-opener to me.

C.—Back to the original question. You say it is the nerves that govern the muscles. Now what is it that governs and controls the action of the kidneys? What is it that governs and controls the action of the pores of the skin, that causes them to open and close and secrete the water? What governs and controls that action of the muscles?

M.—Guess again, I will have to say the nerves.

C.—Well, does that not answer the question? Find the trouble with the nerves, correct them and you have removed the cause of the trouble. The cause being removed there ceases to be any trouble. Almost too simple to comprehend, isn't it? As I told you before you people do not go into the trouble deep enough; always seeking a remedy and never the real cause. Your system has always been the one seeking the elusive remedy, devising a lot of different treatments trying to work on effects. Always in the dark working on dead subjects to find the action in life in place of making a study of the live man in action. Yours has been a history of ever changing your methods of treatment. Look back to the time of George Washington. You then in a case of high blood pressure drew a pint of blood. In the case of anemia drew a pint of blood.

M.—Yes, I know they are always teaching us a lot of theories and more theories.

C.—Yes, your theories of today are obsolete tomorrow. All your time you are now wasting on the germ theory will be thrown away in the near future. Even your foremost medical experts and specialists today are trying to tell you that the germs are there as a result of disease rather than a cause of it. Do you know what the trouble is with you people? You have too much EDUCATION and not enough KNOWLEDGE. Do you know the difference?

M.—No, what is it?
C.—You learn out of books that which some one told some one else and that someone else wrote it in a book. That is education. Now take that something and go out in practice and prove it to be true and it becomes KNOWLEDGE.

M.—Guess that is about right.

C.—Back to the germ theory. Why man do you know that you have no right to be alive today. According to the germ theory, you should be a dead one. You are cheating the germ theory by being alive at all, for you have breathed in enough T. B. bacilli to kill a regiment. Now just what excuse have you for being alive, because if the germ theory is tenable and they do cause disease, then they must cause it in everyone? The germs surely are not endowed with super power to pick their victims.

M.—Well, some have more resistance than others.

C.—Yes, but no matter how much resistance, germs do cause disease, so you say, then if it causes it in one it ought to cause it in all.

M.—You got me. Now how would you explain it?
C.—You never find maggots in fresh meat, do you? Flies lay their eggs on fresh meat and you can keep it for a long time and no maggots, but let the meat rot and you will have plenty. No decayed meat, no maggots. Are they there as a cause of the rotten meat, or is the rotten meat just the kind of food they live on.

M.—Agreed, but how does that apply to this case?

C.—Simple. As long as your lungs do not have any decayed or rotten places in them it is live tissue and no matter how many germs you breathe they die as there is nothing for them to live on, as in the case of fresh meat and that is your excuse for being alive today. But you know that every seven years you are rebuilt, in fact, there will be nothing of your present self here in seven years, you will have been all replaced. There is always a replacing process going on controlled by nerves providing nutritive and rebuilding impulses to every cell, building new ones to replace the old ones to all parts of the body and to the lungs in this case. What will happen if these nerves are cut off from a section of the lungs and they do not receive their nutrition and their new cells?

M.—They die.

C.—Surely, and then we have what process going on? They rot, they decay, they form pus and fever, burning up more cells. You call that tuberculosis, because it is just the kind of food the tubercular bacilli want to live on. In fact, the bacilli act as scavengers for the various parts of the body, consuming the wastes of the body. Now that being the case shall we give them (the germs) a real treat and limit the patient to eggs and milk, keeping the other nourishing foods from the patient that the body needs to build it up, thus letting him rot some more and eventually die from it? Or, take the pressure off of the nerves that build up that part of the lung, thus allowing him to replace those dead cells with live ones so that T. B. germs will no longer have any food to live on and the patient will get well.

M.—I can't see any flaw in that argument, it seems very logical and reasonable. Do you know that you are giving me a lot of food for thought and I can now see things in a different light. I will bear this in mind as I go through the course and reason these things out.

C.—Do you know the difference between a successful doctor and a failure?

M.—Well let's have it. You are giving me so much that is good, so let's have the rest.

C.—The difference between success and failure is the ability to keep your eyes and ears open, take in all you can and then use your God given power to reason things out and prove them. The ape imitates, but God gave man a brain to reason, but too many of us take the path of least resistance and swallow everything we read in books, hook, line, sinker and all.

M.—But how about high blood pressure.

C.—Well, let us reason that out. What is high blood pressure and what causes it?

M.—That is when the heart works too hard and the arteries become hardened.

C.—That is not necessarily always the case, nor is it necessary to have a hardening of the arteries to cause it. Let us see what we find from our clinical study of the live man in action. The heart is much like a water pump and you will notice that every one of them has an air chamber above the cylinders to take care of the sudden onrush of water from the piston. If they did not have it the pump would be shattered by the sudden onrush of the water. The heart does not have this kind of an air chamber so the arteries must act as a sort of rubber elastic chamber to take care of the sudden rush of blood. The arteries and veins too, for that matter have muscular coats that seem to react to stimuli of the onrushing blood and close in around each impulse to help carry on the blood forced out by the heart, thus helping to circulate it. Just as long as these muscles remain pliable and elastic they will function normally and the heart will not suffer strain. However, when they become stiff or stretched out they no longer react to the impulses of the heart and there is a strain on that organ. In the ratio to the stiffening of the vessel walls just to that extent is it necessary for the heart to work against that much more resistance, pump harder, therefore, increasing the pressure behind the column of blood. Now as in the case of the lungs these vessel walls and their muscles receive nutritive, repair and cell rebuilding impulses over the nerves. Just as long as these impulses reach them directing them to rebuild as fast as they are torn down the process is normal. Should some of these impulses not reach there we will have a lack of proper rebuilding and nourishment resulting in the muscles losing their tone and elasticity. Nor is this the only condition that will effect them, for like all other muscles they are subject to the same loss of power by the impairment of the nerve supply that directs them, in which case we have another form of loss of elasticity of the vessel walls, this without even hardening of the arteries. These conditions may take place in any part of the body, even in the brain where we have so many vessels. When these walls become weak enough and the pressure high enough something must give way. When this happens in the brain we have what is commonly called a stroke. Now here again you see that the nerves are groundwork and the key to the whole situation. What shall we do in this case? Diet and limit the food supply of the patient to a starvation point, put some poison medicine in the system to regulate the action of the heart as in medical practice, OR do the reasonable thing and find the place where the interference with the nerve supply is, thus correcting the original condition, removing the cause of the trouble and take away the cause for further trouble.

C.—We certainly do find them and no matter if there be any number of them the ones that need correcting are corrected and when this correction is completed there is no need of further trouble.

M.—I am satisfied on that score, but what about boils, for you surely can not adjust them?

C.—No, we do not adjust them in fact, we have no need of doing anything with them, that is the boils. There you go again, just can not see anything but the effects. Why not go back farther and find out what causes the boils? What does cause them?

M.—Poison collected under the skin.

C.—Well, why does it collect?
M.—Because it is in the system.

C.—Why is it in the system?
M.—Well, because it is there, I suppose.

C.—The answer to that is that some of the eliminative organs have fallen down on the job and nature is trying its best, in the best way it can to get rid of the poison without throwing the load on the kidneys and rest of the organs that have all they can do to carry the load under the conditions. They are not doing it because there is some obstruction to the working impulses coming down from the brain. Again what are the controlling impulses that make the skin and kidneys function?

M.—The nerves.

C.—Then there is the solution to your problem of boils, skin eruptions and the like. This is the reason why Chiropractors have such quick results in the so-called contagious diseases because they immediately get at the real cause of the trouble in place of letting the patient burn up for weeks while you fellows are trying to treat the effects.

M.—How long a course do you fellows have to take?

C.—The length of time is merely a matter of comparison. We take a longer course than you do, when you count out the hours that you put in on things that are absolutely useless to us and evidently so to you as when we consider the 'Flu' statistics and came to the conclusion the more medicine, the surer the death. You spend 1727 of these useless hours to us, in memorizing 45,000 drugs (poisons) and their antedotes, in germology and similar subjects.

M.—How is it that many Chiropractors have only about six months schooling?

C.—How is it that right here in Iowa many years ago that all the requirements to become a medical doctor was that one sit in a doctor's office six weeks and read his books?

M.—That is impossible.

C.—No, on the contrary, it is true, but a long time ago. That is past history. In my own memory I know that medical students only had to go down to Keokuk for a few months to become medical doctors. Remember that you have had 5000 years to bring up your standards and we have had less than 35 years, but look what we have accomplished. The law of the survival of the fittest has wiped out your useless men of this type and it is doing the same to ours now. However, do not forget that some of your ablest doctors in this state are those short term men. In fact, they are much better than some that you are graduating today, who think they know the last word, the old timers are ever ready to learn all they can.

M.—How about some of those Chiropractors putting out some of those jingles and advertising. I don't think that is ethical?

C.—No, I don't think it is ethical to you, because they pay for it in good cold cash, though it would be ethical if they used the taxpayers' money, or public funds to pay for it.

M.—That is a pretty broad statement, if you do not have proof for it.

C.—We have all the proof you could possibly want. For example last summer, your Red Cross which is controlled by you, sent the school nurse around to scare the parents into taking their children down to the medical doctors to be filled with poison that may make them sick for the rest of their lives or even cause death, or to have their tonsils 'jerked' out of the surgeon, even though your U. S. Public Health Bulletin No. 175, brings out that these children are about twice as susceptible to children's diseases than those who have them in, and your Dr. Clark, Senior Surgeon of the U. S. Public Health Service finds one-third more have heart disease than do those who retain their diseased tonsils. Who paid these nurses to go around and advertise for the M. D. and Surgeon? It was paid for by money collected from the public for Christmas Seal Stamps, according to published statements, money that the public was lead to believe was going to be used for some poor tubercular sufferer. SOME ETHICS THAT IS. How about the whole army of nurses that go around the schools drumming up business for you and running down all other methods? Yes, ethical, as long as the taxpayers pay for it. Is that fair and square?

M.—No, it is not and should not be done. If your methods are so good and effective why are they not adopted and incorporated in the practice of medicine?

C.—In the first place fire and water do not mix any more than Chiropractic and medicine will mix. The two methods are so diametrically opposite that it would be impossible to combine them. That is the reason why we are able to get so many more results than you are. In the second place Chiropractic is ours by right of discovery which the U. S. government protects even more rigidly than a patent, so you see if you people should try and combine it with yours it would be plainly a steal and be dealt with in the U. S. Courts even more severely than an auto theft.

M.—Well, you will have to admit that you people have profited by our past mistakes.

C.—No, I do not see in what way we have any more than the legal profession have profited by the mistakes of the undertaker. As explained, your line of reasoning and deductions are so far removed, your methods of approach are so different and your methods of handling the case so directly opposite, so that in order to attain the proficiency we have it has been necessary for us to discard all of your theories and investigate along lines absolutely foreign to your methods.

M.—Then you do not think our profession as good and efficient as yours?

C.—In view of statistics, results attained and actual practice, I do not see how it is possible to make any favorable comparison between the two. Why is it that your ablest leaders in your profession are telling you and in practice prescribe less drugs all the time and rely on nursing, sanitation and hygiene for your results? Why is it that so many of your medical doctors after thorough and conscientious study have given up completely the practice of medicine and taken up Chiropractic?

M.—Is it possible that that is the case.

C.—Not only possible but actually is the case. Just keep your eyes open and watch the trend of the articles and statements of Mayo, Cabot and others. Watch the Associated Press dispatches reporting the meetings of your profession. Even the New York University have made investigations and experiments giving as a result the statement that manipulations and corrections of the fifth Lumbar vertebra and the Sacro-iliac articulations relieve sciatica and nervous troubles, things that we have discovered over thirty years ago and have used every day in our practice. Dr. Crile, head of that famous Cleveland hospital, comes out in a book practically verifying Chiropractic Philosophy. These are just a few examples and you can find them every day.

M.—It is getting near our destination so will not ask any more questions as it seems utterly useless, for you have given a satisfactory explanation to every one so far. I have learned a lot and you can just bet that from now on I will keep my eyes open and investigate as I go along. I want you to know that I certainly appreciate our little friendly controversy and should I ever come to your city I want to look you up.

C.—You certainly are welcome as I too, have gained by our controversy, as the only way we gain is by investigating both sides of the question.

Austin, Texas.—"In the sixteen years of my own housekeeping, Theford's Black-Draught has been my best stand-by in the way of medicine," says Mrs. J. M. Rich, of 1700 Holly Street, this city.

"I have found Black-Draught to be the best medicine I have ever used for the relief of colds. I have been using it in my home for years.

"My father used it also in his home and gave it to us children. Whenever we had the usual children's complaints, mother would make up a tea of Black-Draught and give us. We always felt better after taking it.

"I also give it to my children when they have colds or upset stomach. Sometimes they get feverish from biliousness. If they begin to get yellow, or their tongues are coated, I make a tea (of Black-Draught) and give to them in small doses. They don't mind taking it at all."

In thousands of families, Theford's Black-Draught has a corner all its own on the medicine shelf. In use nearly 100 years.

Theford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable medicine, free from harmful mineral drugs. Costs only 1 cent a dose. NC-231 fact established and proved in thousands of cases like that of Mrs. Dora Bauer, 3403 St. Vincent avenue, St. Louis. Read the grateful words:

"How I wish that every sufferer from neuritis could know what Konjola did for me. For ten years I endured agonies from this awful ailment. I had to keep my arms wrapped tightly to ease the pain. My digestion was bad, too, and this weakened me, making me still easier prey for neuritis. I can not remember how many medicines and treatments I tried, but found nothing to give relief, until I found Konjola. In just five weeks this remarkable medicine restored digestion, rid my system of poisons and impurities, and then the neuritis left as if by magic. What a boon Konjola proved to be to me. No wonder Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends. It should have a billion."

The meeting was then taken in charge by the program committee, which conducted various contests. One, a St. Patrick contest, was won by Mrs. David Smith, who was presented with a neatly wrapped package. Upon opening it, a jointed snake jumped out as a further reminder of the patron saint of Ireland. Second place in the contest was won by Mrs. Juanita Lyons.

Refreshments consisting of a salad course and a green iced drink were served. Mrs. Frank Stewart was the only invited guest.

Public utility preferred shares are classed among the safest and most desirable investments. It is estimated that over three million persons in this country own this class of shares. In addition to this, many are indirectly interested in the utility business since a large part of the reserve of banks and insurance companies is invested in the securities of utility companies.

By following a definite program, however, he turned failure into success and the play ended very happily.

1. Keep only pure-bred birds.
2. Weed out the non-producers.
3. Give them a clean comfortable house.
4. Feed a perfectly balanced ration.
5. Keep records to show you which feed to use to make you the most money.

Mr. White urged his hearers to take a more active interest in the gathering of these relics because of their educational value, and because eastern and northern museums and Universities are coming into Texas and taking these historical treasures. ## Drain Tile "Logs" Used

as Building Material

A "log house" in which the "logs" are formed by common red drain pipe tile has been built in Kingsville, Ontario, Canada. Charles Miner, who erected the unique dwelling, chose tile for the material because it provides dead-air space in the walls to protect the interior from cold in winter and heat in summer.

The house stands on a foundation of concrete blocks, except for the porch and steps, which are supported by the tiles. A wooden framework, sheathed with boards in the usual manner, was first erected and the tile "logs" were laid in courses like brick veneer up the sides. At corners, the ends of the tiles overlap in criss-cross fashion, much as did logs in the cabins of pioneer days. Where the ends of the logs are exposed, they are closed with cement colored to match. This insures dead-air space and prevents birds and squirrels from entering.

The cost of the unusual house is said to have been moderate as compared with the cost of the conventional wood or brick home.—Popular Science Monthly.

Early Man Had Faith

in Arrow Divination

Long ago, in the most high and far off times, primitive man resorted to the making of magic to determine what course to pursue in the vast wilderness of his ancient world, writes Catherine Hargrave in the Boston Transcript. Arrow divination was a favored kind. To make this magic a circle was drawn on the ground with the proper rites and incantations and divided into the Four Directions. With more mystic ceremony arrows were cast into the ring and upon the manner of their falling depended the future.

The American Indians did this as well as the Asiatic peoples, and in both countries gaming sticks resembling arrows, sometimes with actual feathered shaftments and sometimes with the feathers painted upon them, were used to play a game much like the older magical processes, with a circle on the ground, divided into four or eight parts.

Cats Once Deified

Egyptian deification of the cat, says the Golden Book Magazine, has been traced as far back as four thousand years, and for many centuries the bodies of favorite cats were carefully embalmed and interred near the temple of Bubastis, the cat-faced goddess of Bent Hasan or of Heliopolis. One of the strangest archeological discoveries was that which disclosed the mummies of thousands of cats near the tomb of Beni Hasan recently.

Whether the domesticated cat is a native of Egypt is not known, but the first mention of the cat in China was as recent as 400. The cat also was unknown in Europe until just before the Christian era.

Character Comes First

Music, of all the arts, touches most widely on things which are humanly interesting; and if you shut out the knowledge of what is interesting in your fellow human beings, how is your art going to grow? Art, like many other things, gets its food from outside, and it is a mistake to suppose that it can feed exclusively on itself. And art is always interwoven with character, and we have even frequently to observe that character counts for more in the end than natural gifts of any kind, whether artistic or literary.—From "Hubert Parry His Life and Works," by Charles L. Graves.

Moon Viewed From Vessel

The Naval observatory says that the change in an observer's position from day to day on an ocean trip would affect the moon's apparent position so slightly as to be scarcely noticeable—that is, the moon's local time of rising would change from day to day just about as it would if the observer were stationary. However, if the rising of the moon were timed by a watch keeping for instance, Eastern standard time, the speed of the ship might be such that the risings on successive nights would be at approximately the same watch time.

Tree Saved by Washington

The American Forestry association says that the Washington oak in Audubon park, New Orleans, La., is famous for its beauty, its name, the number of annual visitors and its size. It is said to have acquired its name in the following fashion: President Washington was visiting a family by the name of Horry. At dinner Mr. Horry noticed that a tree obstructed his view and gave orders that it should be cut down. Washington heard this and objected. The tree was not cut down and has since been known as the Washington oak.

Cook Books in Story Form

To put over their message in the most pleasing guise, cook books once were written in story form or as a collection of letters, as in "Letters to a Young Housekeeper." Among such cook books was one entitled "Gentle Breadwinners." The heroine passed through various adventures in which she makes french icing, venetian cakes, mince meat, candied orange and lemon peel until, as the climax, she wins, by means of her good cooking, a home and a husband.—Detroit News.

PRE-EASTER SERVICES HERE BEGINS WITH LENT SEASON WEDNESDAY

Ash Wednesday, March 5, ushered in the Lent season, which is a period of 40 days before Easter, set apart by the church to commemorate Christ's fast for forty days as a preparation for Easter. The day before Ash Wednesday, called Shrove Tuesday, is the last day of carnival before Lent. In New Orleans, Mardi Gras or Shrove Tuesday, is the occasion of an annual procession with festivities and revelry lasting till midnight. Ash Wednesday is so called from a custom in the Roman church of sprinkling ashes on the heads of penitents on that day, a ceremony said to have been instituted by Gregory the Great.

The season of Lent is set aside by some churches as a time of prayer and fasting. Special services are provided in the churches which retain the ancient year calendar and opportunities are given people to renew their spiritual lives. Those churches observing special services in Cameron are the All Saints Episcopal church and St. Monica's Catholic church. The Lutheran church follows the ancient calendar but the membership here is not large enough to warrant any special program.

In observance of Ash Wednesday at St. Monica's the ancient rite with its modifications was performed. As is the present custom, the ashes were consecrated on the altar, sprinkled with holy water, signed with the cross, and scattered over the heads of the worshippers, while the priest repeated, in Latin, these words: 'Remember that thou art dust, and wilt to dust return.' Special services will be held each Wednesday and Friday evening during Lent at eight o'clock at St. Monica's.

A special prayer service was held Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the Episcopal church. These services will be held during the season on each Tuesday morning at 8:30 with prayer and communion, and each Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the latter service to feature an address or a period of study.

Miss Dora Emily Moore came home last week end from Southwestern University.

Garner was high score winner for the afternoon and Mrs. Gus Evans was low.

The guests were served a salad course and ice punch tinted pink. Trays centered with vases of sweet peas were used for the service. Mint cups in pink and green filled with shamrock candy, and tiny Irish flag stickups in the salad further emphasized the chosen scheme.

In addition to club members the following guests enjoyed the hospitality: Mesdames B. Slocumb, Lloyd Mitchell, Lester Williams, Floris Criswell, Walter Sharpe and M. M. Johnson.

MRS. SAM McDERMOTT HOSTESS

Combining a St. Patrick's green with a pink color scheme, Mrs. Sam McDermott was hostess last Friday afternoon to the Good Cheer Bridge Club. ## DAN YOUNG, AGED NEGRO SLAVE, DEAD

MILAM COUNTY NEGRO GIVEN RECOGNITION FOR HIS SERVICE IN WAR

Dan Young, colored, age 99 years, probably the oldest person in Milam county died at his home at Hanover, Thursday and will be buried Sunday.

In the Civil War, Dan Young had served as a servant to his old master and three young masters. His old master, Maj. Robert Young and two young masters were killed in battle and each was brought home by this faithful servant. He prized very highly a letter from the remaining young master written several years ago recalling the faithfulness and the bravery of 'Dan Young.' Dan attended the Confederate Reunions, the last being at Charlotte, N. C., 1929, and while there visited his old home, where one of the youngest of his young masters was still living.

He had vivid recollection of the events of the war. He rode on the train that carried Stonewall Jackson to the hospital when wounded. In recognition of the faithfulness to the cause of Confederacy, Jeff Rogers Chapter United Daughters of Confederacy and other friends in Cameron, sent floral offering to be placed on his coffin.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Mangum will regret to know that they are to move to Waco, where Mr. Mangum is to be in the brokerage business. He plans to leave as soon as possible but Mrs. Mangum and their children will probably remain in Cameron until school closes.

Misses Geraldine Slaughter, Florence Atkinson, and Lois and Ruby Robbins, students at the University of Texas, spent last week end at their homes in Cameron.

Students Now Get College Exams In Milam County

From year to year, there are a number of students from the rural schools of Milam County who wish to take up work in San Marcos, Austin, Huntsville, Georgetown, Waco and other nearby schools. As these students do not graduate from accredited high schools, it is frequently necessary for them to spend at least one year in the preparatory school in order that they may enter college.

This is no longer necessary as students may now take the college entrance examinations and be given credit for the high school work done in the home school. These examinations have been held for the past 4 years but there have been very few applicants who have taken the examinations.

This year the County superintendent of Schools is making a special effort to encourage all those who are expecting to study elsewhere during the coming school year. Students will

please note the following announcements concerning these examinations. Time—April 22, 23, 24, 25, 1930. Fee—One to four examinations, one dollar; four to eight examinations two dollars; eight to twelve examinations, three dollars; twelve to sixteen examinations, four dollars. All papers must be sent to Austin for grading.

Clennie Luce, 19 years, died Monday morning, March 3, at 5:30 o'clock from an acute attack of appendicitis. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Luce.

Interment was in Oak Hill Cemetery on March 4, with Green Bros., in charge of arrangements.

Gause Community News*EARLY MORNING BLAZE
DESTROYS GAUSE STORE

Dr. Dubose and Son's Drug and Merchandise Store was completely destroyed by fire about two o'clock Thursday morning. The building was full of flames and the roof was ready to fall in when the fire was discovered. A crowd of men and boys assembled, however nothing could be done for the Dubose store but the workers were kept busy for a while keeping the fire from the A. R. J. Ealand lumber yard.

No source was found for the starting of the fire but a new pair of ladies shoes were found in their box near the back door of the store and a little boy who arrived at the fire about first reported that the back door was broken in so the prevailing rumor was that the store was burg-

larized and then set fire.

Several stores have been burglarized lately so the business men raised a fund among themselves and elected Adrian McCowan night watchman.

GAUSE 4-H CLUB

The Gause 4-H Club met on their regular day, February 28 and had a nice meeting although Miss Bartholomew could not be with us.

Each girl gave a good report of what they had done since last meeting.

Eula Fay Hafley, Opal Stovall, Ethel Luce, Naoma Stovall and Ruby Luce have their gardens planted. The rest of the girls have prepared for planting and some have their fruit trees set out.

The girls who are taking dairying are getting along fine with it. Velma Hafley, who is taking poultry this year has ordered some little chickens.

We elected Doris Williams as song leader and Opal Carroll as yell leader. Opal Carroll has her first year's sewing finished. It was further decided that each member of the club bring a dime in order to get the money which we lack to buy our club stove.

Ruby Luce, Reporter.

The Gause girl's basketball team met Yarrelton in Cameron and played a game last Monday. The Gause girls won by a score of 11 to 7. The Gause girls have not lost again this season. We hope they hold that record on through the tournament. The players are Leasie, Lottie and Gertrude Hauptfleisch, Eleanor Cook, Jessie Pharis, Lois Roper, Winona Mae Vaughn, Beadie Kilpatrick, Opal Carrol and Eula Faye Hafley. Mrs. Author Bowling is coach.

The Boosters met Saturday afternoon and were very much disappointed when informed that it was too cold and wet for the picnic at Sand Banks. To keep the social from being a complete disappointment Miss Edrie Wilson entertained the Boosters with stories and games while Rev. Prather and group leaders, Misses Helen Hauptfleisch and Ariel Wilson prepared refreshments. Cake and lemonade were served to the 22 present and the Boosters told Rev. Prather that they had had a very nice time after all.

Rev. Prather, pastor of the Methodist church, filled his regular appointments Sunday. The Holy Communion was held at the morning services. The Boosters sang 'Bring Them In' at the evening services and Mrs. S. R. Cochran and Mr. J. F. Hickman sang a beautiful number.

J. T. Walston is still very ill. Rest is hard to obtain and yellow jaundice are reported to have set up.

Mrs. W. G. Fowler of Richmond visited friends in Gause.

Terry Moore of Richmond spent a few hours in Gause one day the past week.

Mexico

Let's open our eyes
to our opportunities
next door

MEXICO is one of the greatest storehouses of undeveloped natural resources on the face of the earth. In addition to that it is a land of charm for the tourist. The people not only are as hospitable and courteous as any—their hospitality and courtesy is developed against a background of 400 years of Caucasian civilization and culture.

Basic soundness of Mexican institutions has been demonstrated in the remarkable way our Sister Republic has survived turmoil and trouble since 1910. There is no visible evidence today in any quarter of the years of strife. On the other hand, wherever one goes, there will be found happy, prosperous, contented, aggressive, patriotic, home-loving and God-fearing men and women who welcome the stranger within their gates.

Mexicans realize they need and must have outside assistance in their development. They are prepared to welcome and reward such assistance in every legitimate way, and the citizens of our country visiting Mexico will be repaid in many ways.

Few realize how easily and comfortably, quickly and economically a visit to Mexico can be accomplished. Excellent train service, that compares favorably with that throughout the United States, enables anyone now to visit Mexico City, for instance, on through trains from St. Louis in less time that it takes to go from St. Louis to Los Angeles.

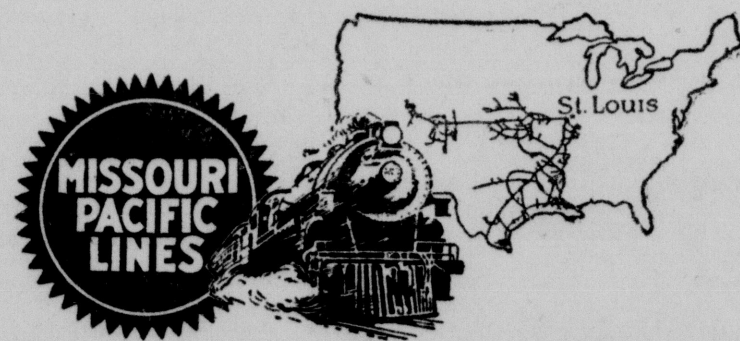

Mexican railroads are marvels of engineering efficiency and their equipment and service compare favorably with any in the United States.

Recognizing all these things, the Missouri Pacific Lines, in addition to endeavoring to help develop the territory directly served by these properties, also acknowledges a responsibility to assist in every possible way in the proper development of our great Sister Republic of the South.

Any Missouri Pacific Man will gladly provide any-one interested with any and as much additional information as may be desired.

I solicit your co-operation and assistance.

Texas And Texans

By Will H. Mayes

Sweet Potatoes

Farmers around De Leon are going in for sweet potatoes. Buyers have visited De Leon and agreed to buy all the crop that may be grown and at a fixed price, thus practically assuring a good market for a safe crop. All who know the De Leon section know that there are many hundred acres there specially adapted to sweet potatoes. In as much as 300 acres are planted to sweet potatoes this year and an equal amount guaranteed for next season, buyers will erect potato curing plants to handle all the crop that may be grown.

Colonizing Large Acreage

Charles F. Ladd, noted as a colonization agent, is devoting his immediate attention now to the colonization of some 30,000 or 40,000 acres in the Winter Garden district with Carrizo Springs as the central point of operation. Carrizo Springs is fortunate in being also the center of the shallowest artesian water section of the Winter Garden, where irrigation is done at the lowest possible cost.

Uvalde Diversification

The greatest prosperity in Texas is evidenced where there is the greatest diversification in industry and agriculture. In summarizing the advantages and needs of the Uvalde section E. B. Neiswanger, of the Central

Power and Light Company, gave as the advantages: cattle, sheep and goats, noted for their excellence; largest asphalt deposits in the country; large production of choicest honey; abundance of shallow water; prolific pecan trees in great numbers. He urged improvement and better use of natural advantages, and increased attention to diversified farming, dairying and poultry growing as the means of the further upbuilding of the section. The Neiswanger program would fit well into many other sections.

Coleman Needs Postoffice

Coleman has outgrown its present postoffice quarters and needs more space. The lease on the building now occupied will soon expire and the authorities are up against the proposition of renewing the lease or securing more room until a suitable building is erected. President Hoover, in line with his prosperity program, should have the department rush the construction of a postoffice building at Coleman and about 100 other towns in Texas that are badly in need of better postoffice facilities.

Population On Wheels

Should you want evidence of the prosperity of Cuero, Gonzales, Luling and Lockhart, try to drive thru those towns on Saturday afternoon. You will get the impression that every family in miles of the towns must own at least two automobiles and that all of them have been driven into town. The only people who do not seem happy and contented are the merchants and their sales forces and their only worry appears to be a fear of being unable to wait on all their customers before the day is over.

John Watson Passes

Every Mason in Texas and thousands in other States, will feel a pang in the heart at the passing recently of John Watson of Waco, who served the Grand Lodge of Texas many years as its Grand Secretary. His years, and he lived to 85, were spent in serving others and encouraging them in the ways of right living. He saw service in places of honor and trust in the days of reconstruction in Texas.

Legislative Bolters

It seems to be mighty hard to keep the Texas legislature together long enough to pass any really worth while measures, but there is no difficulty whatever in getting a quorum to pass the measure to pay their per diem and mileage and a full membership to collect the cash on the warrants for the service they are presumed to render.

Rice cakes, inside of which were found fortunes for the guests, formed an original note in the menu served following the games. Salad and hot tea were also offered.

Guests other than club members were Mrs. Russel Wine of San Antonio, Mrs. Swift of Gardiner, Maine, Mesdames A. H. Baskin, Tom Denison, James L. Coleman, Stanton Dossett, J. M. Bowman, Fritz Fahrendorf, S. Kestenbaum, Rush Thomas and Miss Rosalie Baskin.

There will be no service at the evening hour so that the pastor and membership may attend the closing meeting at the Presbyterian church. Let us give our brethren a packed house and a very sympathetic and prayerful audience.

The Sunday school begins promptly at 9:45 a. m. and the three Epworth Leagues at 6:30 p. m. The Wednesday mid-week service is conducted in the basement of the church and begins at 7:30 o'clock. All are welcome at this, as well as every other service of the church.

C. A. LEHMBERG, Pastor.

MARY LAKE HENDERSON IS HOSTESS TO TUESDAY BRIDGE

Spring flowers in abundance were used in the reception rooms of the T. S. Henderson home Tuesday afternoon when Miss Mary Lake Henderson entertained the Tuesday Bridge Club. On each of the three tables were tiny bowls of early flowers, tame violets in one, wild violets in another and pear blossoms in the third.

The first reminder of the approaching St. Patrick holiday was china nut bowls in four-leaf clover design filled with salted nuts and placed on each table. Tallies were also in the chosen motif. Miss Lucille Dickard made high score for the games and Mrs. Conn Miller was low.

Following the games, the hostess served a salad and hot tea. Centering the tables were green hats filled with salted nuts, and these went to Misses Lucille Dickard, Velda Walker and Bess DuBois, who had high score at each table. Individual favors were St. Patrick novelties with fortunes contained inside.

Miss Henderson was assisted by her mother and by her sister, Mrs. Ernest Beard of Hillsboro. Guests other than club members were Misses Velda Walker, Mary Frances Green and Winnie Henderson.

MRS. SAM McDERMOTT HOSTESS TO GOOD CHEER BRIDGE CLUB

Combining a St. Patrick's green with a pink color scheme, Mrs. Sam McDermott was hostess last Friday afternoon to the Good Cheer Bridge Club. Table covers were in pink and the tables were marked with shamrocks pasted on the covers, one for table one, two for table two and so on. Tallies and score pads also carried out the Irish motif. Mrs. H. E. Garner was high score winner for the afternoon and Mrs. Gus Evans was low.

The guests were served a salad course and iced punch tinted green. Trays centered with vases of sweet peas were used for the service. Mint cups in pink and green filled with shamrock candy, and tiny Irish flag stickups in the salad further emphasized the chosen scheme.

DELPHIAN CHAPTER MEMBERS STUDY ITALIAN LITERATURE

Members of the Delphian chapter studied Italian literature of the late Renaissance at their meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Ada Henderson library. Mrs. Lena Baskin presided in the absence of the president.

After the resume of the last lesson had been given by Miss Winnie Henderson, Mrs. Dow Eplen, leader for the afternoon gave the preparatory discussion and then the following topics were heard:

The Ideals of Courtier, Mrs. Ben Atkinson.

Glimpses of Cellini, Mrs. Niley Smith.

Michael Angelo as a Poet, Mrs. L. Baskin.

CLENNIE LUCE

Clellie Luce, 19 years, died Monday morning, March 3, at 5:30 o'clock from an acute attack of appendicitis. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Luce.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday school at 9:45 a. m.
11:00 a. m. sermon, 'The Work of the Holy Spirit in the Early Church.'
C. E. Societies at 6:45 p. m.

The Seniors and young people met at the church Sunday to organize a Christian Endeavor Society. Mrs. G. Slocumb was elected sponsor. Miss Edna Radtke, president; Miss Lorene Wade, Vice-president; Bonnelle Neinaast, Secretary-Treasurer. Mrs. Slocumb has faithfully served the church in many ways and contributes liberally to all causes. Misses Radtke, Wade and Neinaast have had experience along this line and expect to make this the best Endeavor Society the church has ever had.

The Juniors and Intermediates also organized an Endeavor Society and elected Mrs. N. Bodiford, sponsor.

Services, last Sunday evening were dismissed and a group of 33 or more of our members attended the Presbyterian revival service.

MISS ROSE RISCHAR HOSTESS TO FRIDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Bowls of narcissuses placed about the reception room gave a springtime air to the Rischar home last Friday afternoon when Miss Rose Rischar was hostess to the Friday Bridge Club. These early flowers were also used to center the trays from which the guests were offered a salad course and coffee following the games.

Guests outside the club membership were Mrs. D'Arcy Cashion of Houston, Mrs. Swift of Gardiner, Maine, and Mrs. Vernon Roberts. Miss Rischar was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Dan Legacy of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, who has spent the winter here.

Mrs. Oxsheer Smith made high score among club members and Mrs. Vernon Roberts among guests. Mrs. Cashion was low.

LEADERS DISCUSS DRIVE FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL HERE

Officers and teachers of all the Sunday schools of the city were called to a meeting at the Methodist church last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for a discussion of plans for cooperation in the community Sunday school drive now in progress.

With Rev. Joel Hardigree presiding, addresses were heard from Rev. Hutcherson, Rev. Lehmborg and Rev. Davis, who is conducting a meeting at the Presbyterian church.

Further plans were made for a Brotherhood Banquet to be held next week, and an invitation was extended to a speaker to be present for the occasion. No definite announcement concerning it can be made now.

Little Child Led Where Police Feared to Enter

"Teddy" is a dog, a police dog. Not a dog attached to the police force, but one of those up-standing-eared fellows alert from the tips of his paws to the tip of his husky tail. The "police" refers to his breed and not to his affiliations.

Lieut. Maurice A. Kelliher and Sergt. Oliver J. Barron found this out when they tried to persuade Teddy to let them enter his home in the absence of any members of the family. Teddy was just plain "tough" and the enthusiasm with which he indicated what he meant to do was very convincing.

Teddy's mistress, Mrs. Marcella Vaschilla, had been stabbed and taken away to a hospital. It was necessary for the detectives to enter the house, but "Teddy" said, "No." That Teddy would have been a target for the officers' bullets or a victim of gassing seemed the only way.

And then a small boy of the neighborhood appeared on the scene. With out hesitation he walked into the house. Teddy wagged his tail and said, "Hello, old sport." In the best dog language, submitting in the meantime to being tied so that he was no longer a menace to officers of the law.

Thus a little child led two husky bluecoats. — Worcester Telegram.

SCHOOL MEET WILL ATTRACT BIG CROWD

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE IN
ROCKDALE FRIDAY AND
SATURDAY, MARCH 21-2

Everything points to a big time in Rockdale on the occasion of the Milam County Interscholastic School Meet which comes to Rockdale on Friday and Saturday, March 21-22.

From all over the county comes word that the rural schools are preparing their contestants in the various events—both literary and athletic—and given suitable weather Rockdale will probably be called upon to entertain the largest number of visitors yet recorded at the County Meet.

S. C. Miles, Superintendent of Rockdale Schools, is Director General of the Meet and Mr. E. B. Guinn, local high school principal and coach, is Director of Athletics. Both these gentlemen are laying their plans to properly care for the needs of the visitors and hope to have the program move off on both days like a well-oiled machine.

Mr. Miles is this week mailing out to the schools over the county the official program for the Meet. According to this program all literary events are scheduled for the first day except Music Memory, Picture Memory, Essay Writing, Arithmetic and Spelling contests, which will be held on the morning of the second day.

All athletic events will be held on the second day, except Girls' Volley Ball and Junior Boys' and Junior Girls' Playground Ball, which will be on Friday.

The Class B athletic events will be held Saturday morning, while Class A athletes will compete Saturday afternoon.—Rockdale Reporter.

Coffield all of Rockdale; Phil Nolan, Taylor, Carl Liese, Georgetown; Melchisedek C. Cook, Granger; Mrs. Ottilie W. Sowell, Elgin; Charles M. Turney, Smithville; John William Woods, Somerville and Henry J. Loeher, Jr., Caldwell.—Rockdale Reporter.

Broad Hint

A business man who has just become engaged to be married is a good hearted fellow and popular with his staff; his only drawback from their point of view being that he has no idea of time dictating letters just as everybody is packing up to go home.

As a wedding present they bought him a clock.

It was a fine clock, but it had one defect. It had no hands. In thanking them for the gift, he called attention to this fact.

If I

The small boy, aged six, was making a tiny wreath.

"What is it for?" inquired his mother.

"You know you said you heard a mouse in the pantry?"

"Yes."

"And you know you said you thought of buying a trap?"

"Yes."

"Well, if you buy a trap, and if you catch the mouse, and if they drown the mouse after it is caught, and if the mouse is buried, and if we give it a nice funeral, we shall need a wreath, shall we?"

"For the Use of the House"

Three-year-old Billy's mother, being particular that he should not annoy the neighbors, would not permit him to go into their house unless on special invitation. So Billy was especially delighted when he was permitted to spend the whole morning with the ten-year-old boy next door, who was very fascinating to him in a thoroughly "grown-up" way. When he got ready to go home, he summoned all his manners. "Thank you for the house," he said, gratefully.

Colonizing Large Acreage

Charles F. Ladd, noted as a colonization agent, is devoting his immediate attention now to the colonization of some 30,000 or 40,000 acres in the Winter Garden district with Carrizo Springs as the central point of operation. Carrizo Springs is fortunate in being also the center of the shallowest artesian water section of the Winter Garden, where irrigation is done at the lowest possible cost.

Towns Progress Thru Orgazizations and Co-operation

The story is told of a stage driver who was such an expert with his long whip that he was able to pick a horse fly off of a horse's ear with the whip, without touching the horse's ear. Passengers on his stage used to ask him often to give a demonstration of his skill.

One day the stage passed by a large tree in which was hanging a large hornets' nest, about which was flying a number of hornets.

"Let's see what you can do with the hornets," one passenger suggested. "Nope," the whip expert said, "nothing doing, them fellows is organized."

Organization is but another word for co-operation. It has come to be the biggest word in the business world today. On all sides, business is organizing that it may better co-operate.

Co-operation is necessary for community development. Towns like Cameron must have the united effort and resource of everyone in them to make the best of their opportunities. Division and factions but divide the effort and resource and reduce the possibilities of success.

Cameron needs the co-operation of every man in it in the big program of community development that must be kept in mind if Cameron is to continue to progress.

Let's all get together and all work together and all pull for Cameron.

Headaches! Colds! Neuralgia! Dental Pain!

Victors are bored, and victims bitterly Bewail the chances that have brought
defeat,
And break their swords, and on a
barren tree
Hang up their harps, and hate the
bread they eat,
The conquerors they serve, the im-
potence
Of their weak arms against the brutal
might
Of stronger men, and most, the common sense
That points a calm acceptance of
their plight.

When wars are over, and the strug-
gles cease,
The ugly rage and the dull weariness
Are to the once embattled awful
peace.
Victor and vanquished, in their hearts
confess
That when the bitter truth at last is
said,

—John K. Fineran.

More than ten years have elapsed
since the enactment of the prohibition amendment and except for the
blaze of campaign oratory it occu-
pies a place of as much prominence in
national and state controversy as
when it was the measure of public esteem meted to candidates for public
office. The status of prohibition is
fixed so far as sentiment is concern-
ed. That was proven in the recent
presidential campaign when a wet
was defeated by a dry, although voters differing upon the question were
opposed to each other in that ballot
for a nation's chief. Still this question is unsettled so far as its ap-
for it seems that too many folks in
this country vote dry and practice
the opposite policy. At least facts
thus far submitted would seem to in-
of people have become reconciled to
the starvation policy imposed upon
their appetites by this noble experiment.

Prohibition is a subject about which
one must write or talk with great
care. It is much more safe to pro-
claim it and violate it, than to attempt a solution of it by conducting
an unbiased examination. The vic-
ious elements of the old controversy
still persist, and one may not expect to discuss it without certain assurance of being both misunderstood
and maligned. That in brief has been
one of the contributing causes to the
failure of enforcement. Communicants as represented by both sides of
this divergent political faith can
neither be reconciled nor brought into
the pale of logic in an effort to ad-
just this question. To be sure it has already been adjusted as well as settled. One must accept that as an
edict from which there is no appeal.
It is only an incorrigible element who
oppose it or a palsied element who
proclaim it, and what have we? A controversy that overshadows the
a free people—the adjustment of eco-
a great benefit to the nation no one,
it seems should deny. On the other
hand its enforcement has failed in a
large measure and a halting candor
can only serve to confuse and pro-
long an ugly factional difference.
And what have we? A controversy
that threatens to project itself to the
confusion of the major problems of government and statecraft. Out of
the ragings now engrossing the congress will come nothing. To enforce
it against the opinions of a large element of people invites still further
strife and even bloodshed and what
have we?

The dries have discovered a Turk
152 years of age who has never used
intoxicants. The wets counter with
a Chinaman who is 162 years of age
and has been a consistent user of
liquor. And what have we? A car
load of malt syrup consisting of nine
thousand cases will make one million
and eighty thousand loaves of bread.
And what have we? A twenty million ballot poll by the Literary Digest
to sound out sentiment after ten
years of constitutional law.

Education has been the desirable
equation for all time for every difference that springs up between man
solve every problem and nothing is
to be gained by evasions or bitterness.
This is said to both sides. It is advice, good or bad, depending on the
side you represent, but it is true.

Austin Etrete Named For Former Cameron Resident, Lou Kemp

A new road leading to the state cemetery in Austin has been named Lou
Kemp Street. Mr. Kemp was born
and reared in Cameron and is known
as Wiltz Kemp.

The honor coming to Mr. Kemp results from his efforts in past years
in finding the graves and having
moved to the state cemeteries bodies
of Texas patriots and historic characters.

Mr. Kemp has conducted an interesting research for the bodies of these
patriots and the naming of this street
which offers access to the cemetery

FIRST MEETING HELD WEDNES- DAY NIGHT UNDER CHAS. MEYER

Training School for the Heart O'Texas
Council was held Wednesday evening, March 5 at the Ada Henderson
school. Charlie Meyer, field execu-

ing. For three consecutive Wednes-

held and then for the next two Sun-

6, there will be sessions.

M. C. Fox Buys The Milam County Battery

M. C. Fox has purchased the Milam
County Battery Company from D. K.
Hall and has taken charge of the business.

Mr. Hall recently purchased this business from Mr. Fox but on account
of other interests found he could not
devote as much time as was required
for this business.

The Dayton Rubber Company has
again entered into a contract with M.
C. Fox to sell the Dayton tire. Mr.
Fox is the first dealer in Texas to get
a contract. He is no longer associated with the Hicks Rubber Company
but has a direct factory connection
and is able to sell these great tires
to a better advantage and at corre-
spondingly lower prices because the
dealers have a direct connection with
the factory.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO PRESENT PLAY

PRODUCTION COMPANY TAKES LOCAL TALENT FOR BIG PRODUCTION HERE

Plans for presenting the home-
talent play, 'Aunt Lucia' were completed at the regular monthly meeting of the Business and Professional
Women's Club held Tuesday evening
at the club rooms. Miss Alice Ken-
the Universal Production Company
of Fairfield, Iowa, will direct the play
and she is in the city now conducting
rehearsals.

Miss Ann Stallworth presided over
the business meeting Tuesday evening in the absence of the president,
Mrs. Gladys Watson. Refreshments
of salad and hot tea were served, after which a short musical program
was heard. Miss Vetriss Kirk, accompanied by Miss Mary Ellen Manning
sang a solo, and Miss Gladys Jewel
Copus, accompanied by Miss Billy
Gaither, rendered a violin solo.

O. S. HOCKADAY
Supt. of Transmission
Texas Power & Light Co.

P. H. CREEKMORE
Patrolman Lampasas Dist.
Texas Power & Light Co.

P. H. Creekmore of Lampasas, pa-
trolman for the Lampasas patrol district of the Texas Power & Light Co.,
was awarded a loving cup at the annual meeting of employees of the
transmission section of the Power department of the company in Dallas
recently. This award is offered each
year to the patrolman who makes the highest score in neatness of substation grounds and in general efficiency.

Mr. Creekmore won the cup in competition with 36 other patrolmen with
a score of 96.75 points out of a possible 100, one of the best scores ever
made by company patrolmen. In addition to having charge of the Lam-
pasas substation Mr. Creekmore also has charge of the company substations
at San Saba, Llano, Burnet, Copperas Cove, Evant and Lometa
and also patrols 134 miles of power
lines which serve these cities and
towns.

transmission for the Texas Power & Light Co., is presenting the cup to
Mr. Creekmore, on the right.

H. M. Hefley Visits H. M. Hefley; And Both Have Good Laugh Over Singular Acquaintance Incident

The fact that he is a close observer
as well as an astute business man has
netted for Henry M. Hefley, vice-president of the First National Bank,
one additional relative, how near or
how far removed no one knows, and
it really doesn't matter.

While looking over his evening paper recently, Mr. Hefley noticed that
H. M. Hefley had purchased and registered an automobile at Waco. Feeling sure that he knew all the Hef-leys in this section, Mr. Hefley decided that the purchaser of the automobile was an impostor using his name.
Therefore, he notified the proper authorities in Waco and awaited results.

He did not have to wait long. There
was a long distance telephone call
from Waco and an indignant voice
came over the wires declaring that
the owner was one Horace Martin
Hefley of Norman, Oklahoma, at the present time a professor of Zoology
at Baylor University and that he had
bought and paid for the automobile.

After explaining the situation Mr.
Hefley invited the young man to pay him a visit so that they might see if there were really a family connection,
a fact that seemed more certain since both men have the name of Martin.
The invitation was accepted last week end and after much scaling of family trees, the principals in the story discovered that almost without a doubt H. M. Hefley of Cameron and H. M. Hefley of Waco are related.

HERALD EDITOR TALKS TO STUDENT BODY

PRESENTS INDIAN RELICS AND DISCUSSES NEED FOR IN- TEREST IN FOSSILS

Exhibiting his interesting collection of arrow heads, fossils, Indian
relics and other evidences of early life
in Milam county, J. B. White, editor
of The Herald, spoke to the students
of Yoe High school during the chapel period last Friday morning, holding their attention for more than an hour. Mr. White has spent some time
on expeditions over the county gathering these reminders of the past,
and everything that he has come out
of this county.

During the course of his talk to the students, he explained the significance of certain of his articles and

CLEVER COMEDY PRESENTED TO POULTRYMEN AT YOE HIGH AUDITORIUM

The cleverest and most interesting
poultry program ever presented in
this community was given by C. R.
Fry, poultry specialist of the Purina
Mills, at Yoe High school auditorium
Monday night, March 3.

Instead of the usual dull lecture,
the points were put over very for-
tably in the form of an interesting four
act play, entitled 'The Lay of a Hen.'
The play itself was educational, the
plot being worked out to show how
the average poultry raiser loses money every year by haphazard methods.

'Lett M. Russell' brought many good laughs from the audience by his

unusually good and well kept according to Mr. Huckaby's reports.
The total amount of aid recommended for Milam County is $9,-

2 Wells Near Complete

(Taylor Press)

With everything looking good around the three new wells optimism
is at its height among the oil fraternity which is confident of at least
two new wells this week. The first
one expected to come in is the Chapman-Fuchs No. 1, and this is looked
for Thursday.

The Simms Oil Company's No. 1 on
the Lawrence tract is now down al-
most 1600 feet, it is understood.
Drilling operations were halted at
noon today and had been since two
o'clock this morning due to the fact
a piece of pipe had become unjointed
and had to be fished out of the hole
with a fishing tool. The piece was drawn to the surface about noon and

ESSEX CHALLENGER TO MAKE TEST RUN FRIDAY

100 MILE GASOLINE TEST AND POWER TEST TO BE MADE ON NEW MODEL

The Essex Challenger will be presented Friday in a series of tests including a 100 mile gasoline and oil
test by Horstmann Brothers of the Cameron Tire Store.

The car will carry a driver, two observers and a news writer. The trip
will be made from Cameron to the
oil field and return carrying
the party. The car will start from
the Cameron Tire Store at ten
o'clock Friday morning.

The run will be made to the oil
fields and return. On the return trip
in the afternoon a power test will be made on Knob Hill near Rogers, one
of the most difficult grades in the state. In addition to this and the
gasoline and oil test a brake test will
be made and also an acceleration
test. The facts certified to by witnesses will be published next week
and the showing will be of interest.

The test is made in conjunction
with the national Essex Challenger
Week and will present the new car
at its best in actual road services.

The New Essex for 1930 is a new
car throughout and incorporates some
of the most outstanding achievements known to the industry. The results of this test will be revelation of the new car and Horstmann
Brothers invites you to watch for the
facts as given by competent observers.

Gene Smith Buys Bluebonnet Cafe

Gene Smith, proprietor of the Newport Cafe and City Marshal-elect of Cameron has purchased the Blue-
bonnet Cafe from D. Fikes. The deal
was closed on Thursday according to Mr. Smith.

The kitchen and a large portion of
the Cafe was recently destroyed by
fire. The cafe is now being restored
and will be made into a modern cafe
again. The cafe will be opened some

Sirene Alarm For Coleman Ambulance

The ambulance of the Coleman-Ep-
len funeral home has been equipped
with a sirene alarm. The sirene has
been placed on the ambulance at considerable expense to the firm.

The people of Cameron will be glad
to cooperate with the drivers of their
big motor because emergency calls
are very often made and right of way
should be given. Traffic should always make way for this ambulance
and the sirene alarm will always herald the coming of the ambulance.

TEXAS-LOUISIANA POWER COM- PANY AGAIN OFFERS 7% PREFERRED STOCK

cent Preferred Stock of the latter
Company is now available and an opportunity to become partners in this
Texas utility will be offered to the citizens of Cameron.

This security was offered to customers of the Company for the first

ber of shares were sold to customers

April, July and October.

The stock will be sold through local employees of the Texas Water Utilities Company either for cash or
on a convenient savings plan. Thru
the latter plan the customer can purchase stock by paying $10.00 down
and $10.00 per share each month and
receive 7% interest in these payments from the date they are made
until the stock is paid for in full,
when the stockholder received his
certificate and interest check, less the
adjustment of dividend.

of the Texas-Louisiana Power Company has been distributed in the financial markets of the country. During the last year the Company adopted the policy of inviting citizens of
the communities it serves to become
stockholders also, and to share in the
earnings of this rapidly growing business.

The Texas-Louisiana Power Company is well known in Texas, where
the major portion of its business is
conducted, as well as in New Mexico,
Arizona, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Kentucky. One hundred and seventy-
eight growing towns in these states
are served with one or in some instances all of the following services:
water, electricity, gas, ice or transportation.

Diversified agriculture, oil production, mining, lumber developments
and industrial activities all contribute to the substantial character of
the territory and combined with the

Stronger, Better After Taking Cardui.

Greenwood, Miss.—Mrs. W. D. Taylor, of 1313 Carrollton Avenue, this city, has written of her use of Cardui as follows:

"About five years ago, I was in ill health. I suffered a great deal of pain in my sides and in the lower part of my body. I was weak and nervous, and at the least noise I felt like I must scream."

"At times I would have to go to bed. My head would ache. It would take me three or four days to get over these spells."

"A friend told me to take Cardui, which I did. After my first bottle, I saw some improvement. When I had taken three bottles, I felt stronger and better than I had in some time. I did not have any more of those bad spells."

"I certainly recommend Cardui." "Thousands of other women recommend Cardui, after having found it of valuable assistance to them in building up their health."

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine, and contains nothing harmful. The medicinal value of the herbs from which Cardui is extracted have been well-known in the history of medicine for more than six hundred years.

Try it for your troubles.

Essex Challenger Triumphs Where Grenadiers Were Lost

As a feature of Essex Challenger Week this Essex Coupe set out to test its speed, acceleration and brakes on ice, emerging successfully from

the difficult test. The ice covered the pond that, legend has it, once swallowed a regiment of British Grenadiers when it was marching over to repel an invasion by hostile Indians more than a century ago. The miniature lake is called 'Grenadier Pond' and is close to Toronto, Ontario.

Students Now Get College Exams In Milam County

From year to year, there are a number of students from the rural schools of Milam County who wish to take up work in San Marcos, Austin, Huntsville, Georgetown, Waco and other nearby schools. As these students do not graduate from accredited high schools, it is frequently necessary for them to spend at least one year in the preparatory school in order that they may enter college.

This is no longer necessary as students may now take the college entrance examinations and be given credit for the high school work done in the home school. These examinations have been held for the past 3 years but there have been very few applicants who have taken the examinations.

This year the County superintendent of Schools is making a special effort to encourage all those who are expecting to study elsewhere during the coming school year. Students will please note the following announcements concerning these examinations.

Time—April 22, 23, 24, 25, 1930.
Fee—One to four examinations, one dollar; four to eight examinations, two dollars; eight to twelve examinations, three dollars; twelve to sixteen examinations, four dollars.

All papers must be sent to Austin for grading.

A Friendly Debate Between A Chiropractor and a Medical Student

M. Medical student of the Iowa State University.

C. Chiropractor, Charles E. Caster, Burlington, Iowa.

Place. On train between Boone and Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

M.—Looking up and smiling friendly.
C.—Howdy? Your face looks familiar. Have you ever lived in B?
M.—No. I am a student at the State University.
C.—So was I.
M.—Been to the ball game?
C.—No. Been too busy as I have been out on a lecture tour.
M.—What is your line?
C.—Chiropractor.
M.—Been out lecturing to Chiropractors?
C.—No. I have been lecturing to the public for the last four days on health.
M.—That is strange; I am a medical student.
C.—That is fine. I am very glad to make your acquaintance as we are in similar lines. Always glad to meet you fellows and have a friendly chat.

C.—I would not say very limited. We do not handle obstetrical or surgical cases, as they are out of our line. When it comes to other diseases why should we be limited? Of course, though I have had a wide practice over a number of years, I have not had every kind of a case, nor would anyone. Just name some diseases and in that way we will have a common ground to discuss the case.

M.—How about appendicitis?
C.—Well, just what is appendicitis?

M.—Just been studying my diagnosis. Appendicitis is an inflammation of the appendix. The blood vessels become enlarged, swell up and become irritated producing pain, fever and pu.

M.—That is something that we do not know.

C.—We do not pretend to be an authority on everything, but there are some things that we can tell about. In the first place you must remember that your methods of study and deductions are very different from ours, as you study the dead body, while we study the live body in action, so we are enabled to look at things from a very different angle than you do. Now for instance, when you people remove the appendix there follows in nearly every case a decided constipation. In cases where there is an involvement of the appendix we find constipation present most of the time. This leads us to believe that the appendix has something to do with the peristalsis or movements of the bowels. Just what the normal function of the appendix is we are not prepared to say positively, but one of two things must take place: Either the appendix secretes a lubricant for the large intestines, or it secretes a substance that acts as a stimulus to the nerve centers of the large intestines producing a movement of the bowels. Now here are some questions for you. Just what is it that causes the appendix to perform its normal function? What directs the action? Through what means is it controlled?

M.—The nerves.

C.—Good, now you have answered your own question, for let us reason it out. You would say then that when it does not act normally there is some trouble with the directing power through the nerves. Now admitting that the next question is, what is the most normal thing to do, cut out the appendix, or correct the interference with the nerve that controls it and directs its action.

M.—The logical thing to do is to correct the nerve, that is if you can find the place where the trouble is on the nerve.

C.—Then why do you people cut it out?

M.—We admit that we can do nothing for the nerves, nor can you.

C.—Why not?

M.—Well, how can you for a certainty find the place where the nerves are involved?

C.—That is easy. We can palpate the vertebrae through which the nerves emit, feel the tender area of the involved nerves, palpate the tender fibres and the taut ones and thus locate the vertebrae involved and we can use an instrument that is just as accurate, sensitive and precise as any instrument that you may use in your profession and determine without any question of doubt where the pressure on the nerves is, thus finding the location we can easily correct the cause. This instrument will go you one better for it will also indicate if we have given the correct adjustment. If you had something in your profession that would diagnose your case, tell you what drug to prescribe and then indicate to you if the medicine was having the desired effect you would then have something near like our NEUROCALOMETER. This pressure being corrected thus allowing the necessary messages to go from the brain to the appendix, directing it to perform its normal function, there will no longer be any abnormal condition or trouble so where will your appendicitis be? Isn't that logical?

M.—Yes, but why does that have to come from the brain and how can you move a vertebra.

C.—Your point is well taken. You people scoffed at us for years for saying we could move a vertebra. You said it was impossible and when the X-ray was discovered we took many spinographs and proved to the scientific world that it could be and is being moved and that it does release the pressure. I can readily see why you people claimed that it could not and I agree with you from your standpoint, because as I remarked before you study the DEAD body while we are dealing with the LIVE body. After death the body becomes stiff and solid and then you can not move a vertebra. BUT THAT IS THE DEAD BODY. Now for the other question, remember that Chiropractic is only about 35 years old, still about 25 years ago we evolved the theory from the study of the live man, that there was a direct connection between every tissue cell, that is every minute part of the body, to the brain cell. One brain cell may control many tissue cells, but there must be a direct connection. You again scoffed at us and ridiculed the idea as preposterous, but, let us look into the question. In 1924 your authorities on anatomy, Gray and Cunningham, came out and verified that contention, having traced the direct connection between brain cell and tissue cell, thus showing that Chiropractors were right in their premise and you people were wrong.

M.—We will have to agree to that point, but what about constipation?

C.—Well, what is constipation?

M.—That is when the bowels do not act.

C.—Well, why do they not act?

M.—You may eat something, say cheese and they will not act.

C.—If they were in normal condition why should they not be able to take care of cheese as many eat it and it does not bother them? If that is the cause it should effect everyone the same.

M.—Well, they are not in normal condition.

C.—Right you are, but why are they not in a normal condition?

M.—Don't know how you would answer that.

C.—There are a number of conditions that could involve the bowels. What if you had a condition in the patient where there was an interference with the nerves that direct the kidney action and they were too active and the skin the same way, throwing out an excessive amount of moisture? In other words you only put in so much water into the system in a day, but for example, say the kidneys throw off six quarts, and the skin four or five pints (which is far too much). That water must come from some place, does it not? Would not the whole body be drawn on to make up that supply and the bowels in particular, thus causing a sluggish movement of the fecal matter in them?

M.—Yes, but couldn't the muscles become weak so they would not act?

C.—Surely, any muscles in the body could become weak. What directs the action of the muscles? What makes them strong or weak? In a paralyzed leg, what makes them weak? They are there but they do not work.

M.—The nerves I guess. Yes, I see back to the nerves again. But isn't the trouble in the muscles?

C.—Yes, surely in the muscles, if you want to put it that way, but what makes the trouble in the muscles? I remember back in high school we made a cat kick with its hind legs after it was dead nine days. The cat was there, the muscles were there, the nerves were there, but there was something lacking because the cat was dead and the vital force of life was missing to make the muscles work.

M.—How did you do it?

C.—We dissected the back of the cat, bared the sciatic nerve and applied an electric current to the nerve, thus furnishing the stimuli to make the muscles in the cat's leg jerk and kick. This proves that without the proper stimulus or controlling force to the nerves the muscles will not work.

M.—Well how can you Chiropractors do anything for a case like that?

C.—You just agreed that there was some trouble with the nerves or the muscles would not act, did you not? The difference between your method and ours is that you worry and fuss a lot over diagnosis to find out what is the matter with a patient and then treat the effect in place of seeking out the cause and adjusting the cause. Even your most prominent men in your profession agree that you are wrong in half of your diagnoses. So being wrong half of the time in your diagnosis or premise your treatment must be wrong in half of the cases to start with. Is it any wonder that you are only able to get about three out of a hundred well?

M.—Not so bad as all of that, is it?

C.—Yes, statistics only give you credit of getting three out of a hundred well, the Osteopaths 17, the Christian Scientists 22, and the Chiropractors are now getting 60 out of a hundred well. Take the statistics for the 'Flu.' You lost one in 18 cases, Osteopaths one in 265, the Christian Scientists one in about 525, the Chiropractors one in 886. Let us analyze those figures; you gave the most medicine, the Osteopaths some, the Christian Scientists none and the Chiropractors none, PLUS ADJUSTMENTS. The more the medicine the surer the death.

M.—That is an eye-opener to me.

C.—Back to the original question. You say it is the nerves that govern the muscles. Now what is it that governs and controls the action of the kidneys? What is it that governs and controls the action of the pores of the skin, that causes them to open and close and secrete the water? What governs and controls that action of the muscles?

M.—Guess again, I will have to say the nerves.

C.—Well, does that not answer the question? Find the trouble with the nerves, correct them and you have removed the cause of the trouble. The cause being removed there ceases to be any trouble. Almost too simple to comprehend, isn't it? As I told you before you people do not go into the trouble deep enough; always seeking a remedy and never the real cause. Your system has always been the one seeking the elusive remedy, devising a lot of different treatments trying to work on effects. Always in the dark working on dead subjects to find the action in life in place of making a study of the live man in action. Yours has been a history of ever changing your methods of treatment. Look back to the time of George Washington. You then in a case of high blood pressure drew a pint of blood. In the case of anemia drew a pint of blood.

M.—Yes, I know they are always teaching us a lot of theories and more theories.

C.—Yes, your theories of today are obsolete tomorrow. All your time you are now wasting on the germ theory will be thrown away in the near future. Even your foremost medical experts and specialists today are trying to tell you that the germs are there as a result of disease rather than a cause of it. Do you know what the trouble is with you people? You have too much EDUCATION and not enough KNOWLEDGE. Do you know the difference.

M.—No, what is it?

C.—You learn out of books that which some one told some one else and that someone else wrote it in a book. That is education. Now take that something and go out in practice and prove it to be true and it becomes KNOWLEDGE.

M.—Guess that is about right.

C.—Back to the germ theory. Why man do you know that you have no right to be alive today. According to the germ theory, you should be a dead one. You are cheating the germ theory by being alive at all, for you have breathed in enough T. B. bacilli to kill a regiment. Now just what excuse have you for being alive, because if the germ theory is tenable and they do cause disease, then they must cause it in everyone? The germs surely are not endowed with super power to pick their victims.

M.—Well, some have more resistance than others.

C.—Yes, but no matter how much resistance, germs do cause disease, so you say, then if it causes it in one it ought to cause it in all.

M.—You got me. Now how would you explain it?

C.—You never find maggots in fresh meat, do you? Flies lay their eggs on fresh meat and you can keep it for a long time and no maggots, but let the meat rot and you will have plenty. No decayed meat, no maggots. Are they there as a cause of the rotten meat, or is the rotten meat just the kind of food they live on.

M.—Agreed, but how does that apply to this case?

C.—Simple. As long as your lungs do not have any decayed or rotten places in them it is live tissue and no matter how many germs you breathe they die as there is nothing for them to live on, as in the case of fresh meat and that is your excuse for being alive today. But, you know that every seven years you are rebuilt, in fact, there will be nothing of your present self here in seven years, you will have been all replaced. There is always a replacing process going on controlled by nerves providing nutritive and rebuilding impulses to every cell, building new ones to replace the old ones to all parts of the body and to the lungs in this case. What will happen if these nerves are cut off from a section of the lungs and they do not receive their nutrition and their new cells?

M.—They die.

C.—Surely, and then we have what process going on? They rot, they decay, they form pus and fever, burning up more cells. You call that tuberculosis, because it is just the kind of food the tubercular bacilli want to live on. In fact, the bacilli act as scavengers for the various parts of the body, consuming the wastes of the body. Now that being the case shall we give them (the germs) a real treat and limit the patient to eggs and milk, keeping the other nourishing foods from the patient to eggs and milk, keeping the other nourishing foods from the patient and eventually die from it? Or, take the pressure off of the nerves that build up that part of the lung, thus allowing him to replace those dead cells with live ones so that T. B. germs will no longer have any food to live on and the patient will get well.

M.—I can't see any flaw in that argument, it seems very logical and reasonable. Do you know that you are giving me a lot of food for thought and I can now see things in a different light. I will bear this in mind as I go through the course and reason these things out.

C.—Do you know the difference between a successful doctor and a failure?

M.—Well let's have it. You are giving me so much that is good, so let's have the rest.

C.—The difference between success and failure is the ability to keep your eyes and ears open, take in all you can and then use your God given power to reason things out and prove them. The ape imitates, but God gave man a brain to reason, but too many of us take the path of least resistance and swallow everything we read in books, hook, line, sinker and all.

M.—But how about high blood pressure.

C.—Well, let us reason that out. What is high blood pressure and what causes it?

C.—That is not necessarily always the case, nor is it necessary to have a hardening of the arteries to cause it. Let us see what we find from our clinical study of the live man in action. The heart is much like a water pump and you will notice that every one of them has an air chamber above the cylinders to take care of the sudden onrush of water from the piston. If they did not have it the pump would be shattered by the sudden onrush of the water. The heart does not have this kind of an air chamber so the arteries must act as a sort of rubber elastic chamber to take care of the sudden rush of blood. The arteries and veins too, for that matter have muscular coats that seem to react to stimuli of the onrushing blood and close in around each impulse to help carry on the blood forced out by the heart, thus helping to circulate it. Just as long as these muscles remain pliable and elastic they will function normally and the heart will not suffer strain. However, when they become stiff or stretched out they no longer react to the impulses of the heart and there is a strain on that organ. In the ratio to the stiffening of the vessel walls just to that extent is it necessary for the heart to work against that much more resistance, pump harder, therefore, increasing the pressure behind the column of blood. Now as in the case of the lungs these vessel walls and their muscles receive nutritive, repair and cell rebuilding impulses over the nerves. Just as long as these impulses reach them directing them to rebuild as fast as they are torn down the process is normal. Should some of these impulses not reach there we will have a lack of proper rebuilding and nourishment resulting in the muscles losing their tone and elasticity. Nor is this the only condition that will effect them, for like all other muscles they are subject to the same loss of power by the impairment of the nerve supply that directs them, in which case we have another form of loss of elasticity of the vessel walls, this without even hardening of the arteries. These conditions may take place in any part of the body, even in the brain where we have so many vessels. When these walls become weak enough and the pressure high enough something must give way. When this happens in the brain we have what is commonly called a stroke. Now here again you see that the nerves are groundwork and the key to the whole situation. What shall we do in this case? Diet and limit the food supply of the patient to a starvation point, put some poison medicine in the system to regulate the action of the heart as in medical practice, OR do the reasonable thing and find the place where the interference with the nerve supply is, thus correcting the original condition, removing the cause of the trouble and take away the cause for further trouble.

C.—We certainly do find them and no matter if there be any number of them the ones that need correcting are corrected and when this correction is completed there is no need of further trouble.

M.—I am satisfied on that score, but what about boils, for you surely can not adjust them?

C.—No, we do not adjust them in fact, we have no need of doing anything with them, that is the boils. There you go again, just can not see anything but the effects. Why not go back farther and find out what causes the boils? What does cause them?

M.—Poison collected under the skin.

C.—Well, why does it collect?

M.—Because it is in the system.

C.—Why is it in the system?

M.—Well, because it is there, I suppose.

C.—The answer to that is that some of the eliminative organs have fallen down on the job and nature is trying its best, in the best way it can to get rid of the poison without throwing the load on the kidneys and rest of the organs that have all they can do to carry the load under the conditions. They are not doing it because there is some obstruction to the working impulses coming down from the brain. Again what are the controlling impulses that make the skin and kidneys function?

M.—The nerves.

C.—Then there is the solution to your problem of boils, skin eruptions and the like. This is the reason why Chiropractors have such quick results in the so-called contagious diseases because they immediately get at the real cause of the trouble in place of letting the patient burn up for weeks while you fellows are trying to treat the effects.

M.—How long a course do you fellows have to take?

C.—The length of time is merely a matter of comparison. We take a longer course than you do, when you count out the hours that you put in on things that are absolutely useless to us and evidently so to you as when we consider the 'Flu' statistics and came to the conclusion the more medicine, the surer the death. You spend 1727 of these useless hours to us, in memorizing 45,000 drugs (poisons) and their antidotes, in germology and similar subjects.

M.—How is it that many Chiropractors have only about six months schooling?

C.—How is it that right here in Iowa many years ago that all the requirements to become a medical doctor was that one sit in a doctor's office six weeks and read his books?

M.—That is impossible.

C.—No, on the contrary, it is true, but a long time ago. That is past history. In my own memory I know that medical students only had to go down to Keokuk for a few months to become medical doctors. Remember that you have had 5000 years to bring up your standards and we have had less than 35 years, but look what we have accomplished. The law of the survival of the fittest has wiped out your useless men of this type and it is doing the same to ours now. However, do not forget that some of your ablest doctors in this state are those short term men. In fact, they are much better than some that you are graduating today, who think they know the last word, the old timers are ever ready to learn all they can.

C.—No, I don't think it is ethical to you, because they pay for it in good cold cash, though it would be ethical if they used the taxpayers' money, or public funds to pay for it.

M.—That is a pretty broad statement, if you do not have proof for it.

C.—We have all the proof you could possibly want. For example last summer, your Red Cross which is controlled by you, sent the school nurse around to scare the parents into taking their children down to the medical doctors to be filled with poison that may make them sick for the rest of their lives or even cause death, or to have their tonsils 'jerked' out of the surgeon, even though your U. S. Public Health Bulletin No. 175, brings out that these children are about twice as susceptible to children's diseases than those who have them in, and your Dr. Clark, Senior Surgeon of the U. S. Public Health Service finds one-third more have heart disease than do those who retain their diseased tonsils. Who paid these nurses to go around and advertise for the M. D. and Surgeon? It was paid for by money collected from the public for Christmas Seal Stamps, according to published statements, money that the public was lead to believe was going to be used for some poor tubercular sufferer. SOME ETHICS THAT IS. How about the whole army of nurses that go around the schools drumming up business for you and running down all other methods? Yes, ethical, as long as the taxpayers pay for it. Is that fair and square?

M.—No, it is not and should not be done. If your methods are so good and effective why are they not adopted and incorporated in the practice of medicine?

C.—In the first place fire and water do not mix any more than Chiropractic and medicine will mix. The two methods are so diametrically opposite that it would be impossible to combine them. That is the reason why we are able to get so many more results than you are. In the second place Chiropractic is ours by right of discovery which the U. S. government protects even more rigidly than a patent, so you see if you people should try and combine it with yours it would be paining a steal and be dealt with in the U. S. Courts even more severely than an auto theft.

M.—Well, you will have to admit that you people have profited by our past mistakes.

C.—No, I do not see in what way we have any more than the legal profession have profited by the mistakes of the undertaker. As explained, your line of reasoning and deductions are so far removed, your methods of approach are so different and your methods of handling the case so directly opposite, so that in order to attain the proficiency we have it has been necessary for us to discard all of your theories and investigate along lines absolutely foreign to your methods.

M.—Then you do not think our profession as good and efficient as yours?

C.—In view of statistics, results attained and actual practice, I do not see how it is possible to make any favorable comparison between the two. Why is it that your ablest leaders in your profession are telling you and in practice prescribe less drugs all the time and rely on nursing, sanitation and hygiene for your results? Why is it that so many of your medical doctors after thorough and conscientious study have given up completely the practice of medicine and taken up Chiropractic?

M.—Is it possible that that is the case.

C.—Not only possible but actually is the case. Just keep your eyes open and watch the trend of the articles and statements of Mayo, Cabot and others. Watch the Associated Press dispatches reporting the meetings of your profession. Even the New York University have made investigations and experiments giving as a result the statement that manipulations and corrections of the fifth Lumbar vertebra and the Sacro-iliac articulations relieve sciatica and nervous troubles, things that we have discovered over thirty years ago and have used every day in our practice. Dr. Crile, head of that famous Cleveland hospital, comes out in a book practically verifying Chiropractic Philosophy. These are just a few examples and you can find them every day.

M.—It is getting near our destination so will not ask any more questions as it seems utterly useless, for you have given a satisfactory explanation to every one so far. I have learned a lot and you can just bet that from now on I will keep my eyes open and investigate as I go along. I want you to know that I certainly appreciate our little friendly controversy and should I ever come to your city I want to look you up.

Often Sign of Biliousness That

Black-Draught.

Austin, Texas.—"In the sixteen years of my own housekeeping, Thedford's Black-Draught has been my best stand-by in the way of medicine," says Mrs. J. M. Rich, of 1700 Holly Street, this city.

"I have found Black-Draught to be the best medicine I have ever used for the relief of colds. I have been using it in my home for years.

"My father used it also in his home and gave it to us children. Whenever we had the usual children's complaints, mother would make up a tea of Black-Draught and give us. We always felt better after taking it.

"I also give it to my children when they have colds or upset stomachs. Sometimes they get feverish from biliousness. If they begin to get yellow, or their tongues are coated, I make a tea (of Black-Draught) and give to them in small doses. They don't mind taking it at all."

In thousands of families, Thedford's Black-Draught has a corner all its own on the medicine shelf. In use nearly 100 years.

Thedford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable medicine, free from harmful mineral drugs. Costs only 1 cent a dose. NC-237 fact established and proved in thousands of cases like that of Mrs. Dora Bauer, 3403 St. Vincent avenue, St. Louis. Read the grateful words:

"How I wish that every sufferer from neuritis could know what Konjola did for me. For ten years I endured agonies from this awful ailment. I had to keep my arms wrapped tightly to ease the pain. My digestion was bad, too, and this weakened me, making me still easier prey for neuritis. I can not remember how many medicines and treatments I tried, but found nothing to give relief, until I found Konjola. In just five weeks this remarkable medicine restored digestion, rid my system of poisons and impurities, and then the neuritis left as if by magic. What a boon Konjola proved to be to me. No wonder Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends. It should have a billion."

Konjola is sold in Cameron at Geo. A. Thomas and Son Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Upon opening it, a jointed snake jumped out as a further reminder of the patron saint of Ireland. Second place in the contest was won by Mrs. Juanita Lyons.

Refreshments consisting of a salad course and a green iced drink were served. Mrs. Frank Stewart was the only invited guest.

tomers, who became stockholders last summer, when the Preferred Stock was offered for the first time, indicate that they are not only greatly pleased to receive regular dividend checks quarterly but that their principal is still intact, since the stock is not of a speculative nature, and consequently its value was not affected by last fall's stock market decline.

Public utility preferred shares are classed among the safest and most desirable investments. It is estimated that over three million persons in this country own this class of shares. In addition to this, many are indirectly interested in the utility business since a large part of the reserve of banks and insurance companies is invested in the securities of utility companies.

By following a definite program, however, he turned failure into success and the play ended very happily. The five points in his successful program were:

1. Keep only pure-bred birds.
2. Weed out the non-producers.
3. Give them a clean comfortable house.
4. Feed a perfectly balanced ration.
5. Keep records to show you which feed to use to make you the most money.

The play was original and unique in every way and was greatly appreciated by an enthusiastic audience.

their relation to the life of the Indians. He told them where he had found evidence of Indian villages in this county, declaring that Milam county is rich in primitive lore.

Mr. White urged his hearers to take a more active interest in the gathering of these relics because of their educational value, and because eastern and northern museums and Universities are coming into Texas and taking these historical treasures. He said that he thought the State of Texas should spend one million dollars annually for the next ten years for the establishment of a museum to preserve native relics.

Mr. White's collection is on exhibition at the Cameron Herald building and he is glad for interested people to see it.

Drain Tile "Logs" Used as Building Material

A "log house" in which the "logs" are formed by common red drain pipe tile has been built in Kingsville, Ontario, Canada. Charles Miner, who erected the unique dwelling, chose tile for the material because it provides dead-air space in the walls to protect the interior from cold in winter and heat in summer.

The house stands on a foundation of concrete blocks, except for the porch and steps, which are supported by the tiles. A wooden framework, sheathed with boards in the usual manner, was first erected and the tile "logs" were laid in courses like brick veneer up the sides. At corners, the ends of the tiles overlap in criss-cross fashion, much as did logs in the cabins of pioneer days. Where the ends of the logs are exposed, they are closed with cement colored to match. This insures dead-air space and prevents birds and squirrels from entering.

The cost of the unusual house is said to have been moderate as compared with the cost of the conventional wood or brick home.—Popular Science Monthly.

Early Man Had Faith in Arrow Divination

Long ago, in the most high and far off times, primitive man resorted to the making of magic to determine what course to pursue in the vast wilderness of his ancient world, writes Catherine Hargrave in the Boston Transcript. Arrow divination was a favored kind. To make this magic a circle was drawn on the ground with the proper rites and incantations and divided into the four directions. With more mystic ceremony arrows were cast into the ring and upon the manner of their falling depended the future.

The American Indians did this as well as the Asiatic peoples, and in both countries gaming sticks resembling arrows, sometimes with actual feathered shafts and sometimes with the feathers painted upon them, were used to play a game much like the older magical processes, with a circle on the ground, divided into four or eight parts.

Cats Once Deified

Egyptian deification of the cat, says the Golden Book Magazine, has been traced as far back as four thousand years, and for many centuries the bodies of favorite cats were carefully embalmed and interred near the temple of Bubastis, the cat-faced goddess of Benl Hasan or of Heliopolis. One of the strangest archeological discoveries was that which disclosed the mummies of thousands of cats near the tomb of Benl Hasan recently.

Whether the domesticated cat is a native of Egypt is not known, but the first mention of the cat in China was as recent as 400. The cat also was unknown in Europe until just before the Christian era.

Character Comes First

Music, of all the arts, touches most widely on things which are humanly interesting; and if you shut out the knowledge of what is interesting in your fellow human beings, how is your art going to grow? Art, like many other things, gets its food from outside, and it is a mistake to suppose that it can feed exclusively on itself. And art is always interwoven with character, and we have even frequently to observe that character counts for more in the end than natural gifts of any kind, whether artistic or literary.—From "Hubert Parry His Life and Works," by Charles L. Graves.

Moon Viewed From Vessel

The Naval observatory says that the change in an observer's position from day to day on an ocean trip would affect the moon's apparent position so slightly as to be scarcely noticeable—that is, the moon's local time of rising would change from day to day just about as it would if the observer were stationary. However, if the rising of the moon were timed by a watch keeping for instance, Eastern standard time, the speed of the ship might be such that the risings on successive nights would be at approximately the same watch time.

Tree Saved by Washington

The American Forestry association says that the Washington oak in Audubon park, New Orleans, La., is famous for its beauty, its name, the number of annual visitors and its size. It is said to have acquired its name in the following fashion: President Washington was visiting a family by the name of Horry. At dinner Mr. Horry noticed that a tree obstructed his view and gave orders that it should be cut down. Washington heard this and objected. The tree was not cut down and has since been known as the Washington oak.

Cook Books in Story Form

To put over their message in the most pleasing guise, cook books once were written in story form or as a collection of letters, as in "Letters to a Young Housekeeper." Among such cook books was one entitled "Gambles Breadwinners." The heroine passes through various adventures in which she makes french icing, venetian cakes, mince meat, candied orange and lemon peel until, as the climax, she wins, by means of her good cooking, a home and a husband.—Detroit News.

PRE-EASTER SERVICES HERE BEGINS WITH LENT SEASON WEDNESDAY

Ash Wednesday, March 5, ushered in the Lent season, which is a period of 40 days before Easter, set apart by the church to commemorate Christ's fast for forty days as a preparation for Easter. The day before Ash Wednesday, called Shrove Tuesday, is the last day of carnival before Lent. In New Orleans, Mardi Gras or Shrove Tuesday, is the occasion of an annual procession with festivities and revelry lasting till midnight. Ash Wednesday is so called from a custom in the Roman church of sprinkling ashes on the heads of penitents on that day, a ceremony said to have been instituted by Gregory the Great.

The season of Lent is set aside by some churches as a time of prayer and fasting. Special services are provided in the churches which retain the ancient year calendar and opportunities are given people to renew their spiritual lives. Those churches observing special services in Cameron are the All Saints Episcopal church and St. Monica's Catholic church. The Lutheran church follows the ancient calendar but the membership here is not large enough to warrant any special program.

In observance of Ash Wednesday at St. Monica's the ancient rite with its modifications was performed. As is the present custom, the ashes were consecrated on the altar, sprinkled with holy water, signed with the cross, and scattered over the heads of the worshippers, while the priest repeated, in Latin, these words: 'Remember that thou art dust, and wilt to dust return.' Special services will be held each Wednesday and Friday evening during Lent at eight o'clock at St. Monica's.

A special prayer service was held Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the Episcopal church. These services will be held during the season on each Tuesday morning at 8:30 with prayer and communion, and each Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the latter service to feature an address or a period of study.

Miss Dora Emily Moore came home last week end from Southwestern University.

Garner was high score winner for the afternoon and Mrs. Gus Evans was low.

The guests were served a salad course and lead punch tinted. Trays centered with vases of sweet peas were used for the service. Mint cups in pink and green filled with shamrock candy, and tiny Irish flag stickups in the salad further emphasized the chosen scheme.

In addition to club members the following guests enjoyed the hospitality: Mesdames B. Slocomb, Lloyd Mitchell, Lester Williams, Florida Criswell, Walter Sharpe and M. M. Johnson.

MRS. SAM McDERMOTT HOSTESS TO GOOD CHEER BRIDGE CLUB

DAN YOUNG, AGED NEGRO SLAVE, DEAD

MILAM COUNTY NEGRO GIVEN RECOGNITION FOR HIS SERVICE IN WAR

Dan Young, colored, age 99 years, probably the oldest person in Milam county died at his home at Hanover, Thursday and will be buried Sunday.

In the Civil War, Dan Young had served as a servant to his old master and three young masters. His old master, Maj. Robert Young and two young masters were killed in battle and each was brought home by this faithful servant. He prized very highly a letter from the remaining young master written several years ago recalling the faithfulness and the bravery of 'Dan Young.' Dan attended the Confederate Reunions, the last being at Charlotte, N. C., 1929, and while there visited his old home, where one of the youngest of his young masters was still living.

He had vivid recollection of the events of the war. He rode on the train that carried Stonewall Jackson to the hospital when wounded. In recognition of the faithfulness to the cause of Confederacy, Jeff Rogers Chapter United Daughters of Confederacy and other friends in Cameron, sent floral offering to be placed on his coffin.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Mangum will regret to know that they are to move to Waco, where Mr. Mangum is to be in the brokerage business. He plans to leave as soon as possible but Mrs. Mangum and their children will probably remain in Cameron until school closes.

Students Now Get College Exams In Milam County

From year to year, there are a number of students from the rural schools of Milam County who wish to take up work in San Marcos, Austin, Huntsville, Georgetown, Waco and other nearby schools. As these students do not graduate from accredited high schools, it is frequently necessary for them to spend at least one year in the preparatory school in order that they may enter college.

This is no longer necessary as students may now take the college entrance examinations and be given credit for the high school work done in the home school. These examinations have been held for the past years but there have been very few applicants who have taken the examinations.

This year the County superintendent of Schools is making a special effort to encourage all those who are expecting to study elsewhere during the coming school year. Students will

please note the following announcements concerning these examinations. Time—April 22, 23, 24, 25, 1930. Fee—One to four examinations, one dollar; four to eight examinations, two dollars; eight to twelve examinations, three dollars; twelve to sixteen examinations, four dollars. All papers must be sent to Austin for grading.

Glennie Luce, 19 years, died Monday morning, March 3, at 5:30 o'clock from an acute attack of appendicitis. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Luce.

Interment was in Oak Hill Cemetery on March 4, with Green Bros., in charge of arrangements.

DESTROYS GAUSE STORE

Dr. Dubose and Son's Drug and Merchandise Store was completely destroyed by fire about two o'clock Thursday morning. The building was full of flames and the roof was ready to fall in when the fire was discovered. A crowd of men and boys assembled, however nothing could be done for the Dubose store but the workers were kept busy for a while keeping the fire from the A. R. J. Ealand lumber yard.

No source was found for the starting of the fire but a new pair of ladies shoes were found in their box near the back door of the store and a little boy who arrived at the fire about first reported that the back door was broken in so the prevailing rumor was that the store was burg-

larized and then set fire.

Several stores have been burglarized lately so the business men raised a fund among themselves and elected Adrian McCowan night watchman.

GAUSE 4-H CLUB

The Gause 4-H Club met on their regular day, February 28 and had a nice meeting although Miss Bartholomew could not be with us.

Each girl gave a good report of what they had done since last meeting.

Eula Fay Hafley, Opal Stovall, Ethel Luce, Naoma Stovall and Ruby Luce have their gardens planted. The rest of the girls have prepared for planting and some have their fruit trees set out.

The girls who are taking dairying are getting along fine with it. Velma Hafley, who is taking poultry this year has ordered some little chickens.

We elected Doris Williams as song leader and Opal Carroll as yell leader. Opal Carroll has her first year's sewing finished. It was further decided that each member of the club bring a dime in order to get the money which we lack to buy our club stove.

Ruby Luce, Reporter.

The Gause girls' basketball team met Yarrelton in Cameron and played a game last Monday. The Gause girls won by a score of 11 to 7. The Gause girls have not lost again this season. We hope they hold that record on through the tournament. The players are Leslie, Lottie and Gertrude Hauptfleisch, Eleanor Cook, Jessie Pharis, Lois Roper, Winona Mae Vaughn, Beadie Kilpatrick, Opal Carroll and Eula Faye Hafley. Mrs. Author Bowling is coach.

The Boosters met Saturday afternoon and were very much disappointed when informed that it was too cold and wet for the picnic at Sand Banks. To keep the social from being a complete disappointment Miss Edrie Wilson entertained the Boosters with stories and games while Rev. Prather and group leaders, Misses Helen Hauptfleisch and Ariel Wilson prepared refreshments. Cake and lemonade were served to the 22 present and the Boosters told Rev. Prather that they had had a very nice time after all.

Rev. Prather, pastor of the Methodist church, filled his regular appointments Sunday. The Holy Communion was held at the morning services. The Boosters sang 'Bring Them In' at the evening services and Mrs. S. R. Cochran and Mr. J. F. Hickman sang a beautiful number.

J. T. Walston is still very ill. Rest is hard to obtain and yellow jaundice are reported to have set up.

Mrs. W. G. Fowler of Richmond visited friends in Gause.

Mexico

Let's open our eyes
to our opportunities
next door

MEXICO is one of the greatest storehouses of undeveloped natural resources on the face of the earth. In addition to that it is a land of charm for the tourist. The people not only are as hospitable and courteous as any—their hospitality and courtesy is developed against a background of 400 years of Caucasian civilization and culture.

Basic soundness of Mexican institutions has been demonstrated in the remarkable way our Sister Republic has survived turmoil and trouble since 1910. There is no visible evidence today in any quarter of the years of strife. On the other hand, wherever one goes, there will be found happy, prosperous, contented, aggressive, patriotic, home-loving and God-fearing men and women who welcome the stranger within their gates.

Mexicans realize they need and must have outside assistance in their development. They are prepared to welcome and reward such assistance in every legitimate way, and the citizens of our country visiting Mexico will be repaid in many ways.

Few realize how easily and comfortably, quickly and economically a visit to Mexico can be accomplished. Excellent train service, that compares favorably with that throughout the United States, enables anyone now to visit Mexico City, for instance, on through trains from St. Louis in less time that it takes to go from St. Louis to Los Angeles.

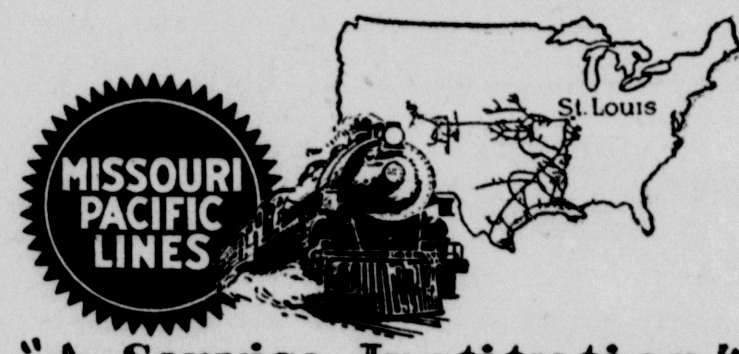

Mexican railroads are marvels of engineering efficiency and their equipment and service compare favorably with any in the United States.

Recognizing all these things, the Missouri Pacific Lines, in addition to endeavoring to help develop the territory directly served by these properties, also acknowledges a responsibility to assist in every possible way in the proper development of our great Sister Republic of the South.

Any Missouri Pacific Man will gladly provide anyone interested with any and as much additional information as may be desired.

Texas And Texans

By Will H. Mayes

Sweet Potatoes

Farmers around De Leon are going in for sweet potatoes. Buyers have visited De Leon and agreed to buy all the crop that may be grown and at a fixed price, thus practically assuring a good market for a safe crop. All who know the De Leon section know that there are many hundred acres there specially adapted to sweet potatoes. In as much as 300 acres are planted to sweet potatoes this year and an equal amount guaranteed for next season, buyers will erect potato curing plants to handle all the crop that may be grown.

Colonizing Large Acreage

Charles F. Ladd, noted as a colonization agent, is devoting his immediate attention now to the colonization of some 30,000 or 40,000 acres in the Winter Garden district with Carrizo Springs as the central point of operation. Carrizo Springs is fortunate in being also the center of the shallowest artesian water section of the Winter Garden, where irrigation is done at the lowest possible cost.

Uvalde Diversification

The greatest prosperity in Texas is evidenced where there is the greatest diversification in industry and agriculture. In summarizing the advantages and needs of the Uvalde section E. B. Neiswanger, of the Central

Power and Light Company, gave as the advantages: cattle, sheep and goats, noted for their excellence; largest asphalt deposits in the country; large production of choicest honey; abundance of shallow water; prolific pecan trees in great numbers. He urged improvement and better use of natural advantages, and increased attention to diversified farming, dairying and poultry growing as the means of the further upbuilding of the section. The Neiswanger program would fit well into many other sections.

Coleman Needs Postoffice

Coleman has outgrown its present postoffice quarters and needs more space. The lease on the building now occupied will soon expire and the authorities are up against the proposition of renewing the lease or securing more room until a suitable building is erected. President Hoover, in line with his prosperity program, should have the department rush the construction of a postoffice building at Coleman and about 100 other towns in Texas that are badly in need of better postoffice facilities.

Population On Wheels

Should you want evidence of the prosperity of Cuero, Gonzales, Luling and Lockhart, try to drive thru those towns on Saturday afternoon. You will get the impression that every family in miles of the towns must own at least two automobiles and that all of them have been driven into town. The only people who do not seem happy and contented are the merchants and their sales forces and their only worry appears to be a fear of being unable to wait on all their customers before the day is over.

John Watson Passes

Every Mason in Texas and thousands in other States, will feel a pang in the heart at the passing recently of John Watson of Waco, who served the Grand Lodge of Texas many years as its Grand Secretary. His years, and he lived to 85, were spent in serving others and encouraging them in the ways of right living. He saw service in places of honor and trust in the days of reconstruction in Texas.

Legislative Bolters

It seems to be mighty hard to keep the Texas legislature together long enough to pass any really worthwhile measures, but there is no difficulty whatever in getting a quorum to pass the measure to pay their per diem and mileage and a full membership to collect the cash on the warrants for the service they are presumed to render.

There will be no service at the evening hour so that the pastor and membership may attend the closing meeting at the Presbyterian church. ### MARY LAKE HENDERSON IS HOSTESS TO TUESDAY BRIDGE

Spring flowers in abundance were used in the reception rooms of the T. S. Henderson home Tuesday afternoon when Miss Mary Lake Henderson entertained the Tuesday Bridge Club. On each of the three tables were tiny bowls of early flowers, tame violets in one, wild violets in another and pear blossoms in the third.

The first reminder of the approaching St. Patrick holiday was china nut bowls in four-leaf clover design filled with salted nuts and placed on each table. Tallies were also in the chosen motif. Miss Lucille Dickard made high score for the games and Mrs. Conn Miller was low.

Following the games, the hostess served a salad and hot tea. Centering the tables were green hats filled with salted nuts, and these went to Misses Lucille Dickard, Velda Walker and Bess DuBois, who had high score at each table. Individual favors were St. Patrick novelties with fortunes contained inside.

Miss Henderson was assisted by her mother and by her sister, Mrs. Ernest Beard of Hillsboro. Guests other than club members were Misses Velda Walker, Mary Frances Green and Winnie Henderson.

MRS. SAM McDERMOTT HOSTESS TO GOOD CHEER BRIDGE CLUB

Combining a St. Patrick's green with a pink color scheme, Mrs. Sam McDermott was hostess last Friday afternoon to the Good Cheer Bridge Club. Table covers were in pink and the tables were marked with shamrocks pasted on the covers, one for table one, two for table two and so on. Tallies and score pads also carried out the Irish motif. Mrs. H. E. Garner was high score winner for the afternoon and Mrs. Gus Evans was low.

The guests were served a salad course and iced punch tinted green. Trays centered with vases of sweet peas were used for the service. Mint cups in pink and green filled with shamrock candy, and tiny Irish flag stickups in the salad further emphasized the chosen scheme.

In addition to club members the following guests enjoyed the hospitality: Mesdames B. Slocumb, Lloyd Mitchell, Lester Williams, Floris Criswell, Walter Sharpe and M. M. Johnson.

Michael Angelo as a Poet, Mrs. L. Baskin.

C. E. Societies at 6:45 p. m.
The Seniors and young people met at the church Sunday to organize a Christian Endeavor Society. Mrs. G. Slocumb was elected sponsor. The Juniors and Intermediates also organized an Endeavor Society and elected Mrs. N. Bodiford, sponsor. Services, last Sunday evening were dismissed and a group of 33 or more of our members attended the Presbyterian revival service.

MISS ROSE RISCHAR HOSTESS TO FRIDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Bowls of narcissuses placed about the reception room gave a springtime air to the Rischar home last Friday afternoon when Miss Rose Rischar was hostess to the Friday Bridge Club. These early flowers were also used to center the trays from which the guests were offered a salad course and coffee following the games.

Guests outside the club membership were Mrs. D'Arcy Cashion of Houston, Mrs. Swift of Gardiner, Maine, and Mrs. Vernon Roberts. Miss Rischar was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Dan Legacy of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, who has spent the winter here.

Mrs. Oxsheer Smith made high score among club members and Mrs. Vernon Roberts among guests. Mrs. Cashion was low.

LEADERS DISCUSS DRIVE FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL HERE

Officers and teachers of all the Sunday schools of the city were called to a meeting at the Methodist church last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for a discussion of plans for cooperation in the community Sunday school drive now in progress.

With Rev. Joel Hardigree presiding, addresses were heard from Rev. Hutcherson, Rev. Lehmborg and Rev. Davis, who is conducting a meeting at the Presbyterian church.

Further plans were made for a Brotherhood Banquet to be held next week, and an invitation was extended to a speaker to be present for the occasion. No definite announcement concerning it can be made now.

Little Child Led Where

Police Feared to Enter

'Teddy' is a dog, a police dog. Not a dog attached to the police force, but one of those up-standing-eared fellows alert from the tips of his paws to the tip of his husky tail. The 'police' refers to his breed and not to his affections.

Lieut. Maurice A. Kellher and Sgt. Oliver J. Barron found this out when they tried to persuade Teddy to let them enter his home in the absence of any members of the family. Teddy was just plain 'tough' and the enthusiasm with which he indicated what he meant to do was very convincing.

Teddy's mistress, Mrs. Marcella Vachilla, had been stabbed and taken away to a hospital. It was necessary for the detectives to enter the house, but Teddy said, 'No.' That Teddy could have been a target for the officers' bullets or a victim of gassing seemed the only way.

And then a small boy of the neighborhood appeared on the scene. With out hesitation he walked into the house. Teddy wagged his tail and said, 'Hello, old sport.' In the best dog language, submitting in the meantime to being tied so that he was no longer a menace to officers of the law.

Thus a little child did lead two husky bluecoats. — Worcester Telegram.

SCHOOL MEET WILL ATTRACT BIG CROWD

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE IN
SATURDAY, MARCH 21-22

Everything points to a big time in Rockdale on the occasion of the Milam County Interscholastic School Meet which comes to Rockdale on Friday and Saturday, March 21-22.

From all over the county comes word that the rural schools are preparing their contestants in the various events—both literary and athletic—and given suitable weather Rockdale will probably be called upon to entertain the largest number of visitors yet recorded at the County Meet.

S. C. Miles, Superintendent of Rockdale Schools, is Director General of the Meet and Mr. E. B. Guinn, local high school principal and coach, is Director of Athletics. Both these gentlemen are laying their plans to properly care for the needs of the visitors and hope to have the program move off on both days like a well-oiled machine.

Mr. Miles is this week mailing out to the schools over the county the official program for the Meet. According to this program all literary events are scheduled for the first day except Music Memory, Picture Memory, Essay Writing, Arithmetic and Spelling contests, which will be held on the morning of the second day.

All athletic events will be held on the second day, except Girls' Volley Ball and Junior Boys' and Junior Girls' Playground Ball, which will be on Friday.

The Class B athletic events will be held Saturday morning, while Class A athletes will compete Saturday afternoon.—Rockdale Reporter.

Broad Hint

A business man who has just become engaged to be married is a good hearted fellow and popular with his staff; his only drawback from their point of view being that he has no idea of time—ditching letters just as everybody is packing up to go home.

As a wedding present they bought him a clock.

It was a fine clock, but it had one defect. It had no hands. In thanking them for the gift, he called attention to this fact.

If I

The small boy, aged six, was making a tiny wreath.

"What is it for?" inquired his mother.

"You know you said you heard a mouse in the pantry?"

"Yes."

"And you know you said you thought of buying a trap?"

"Yes."

"For the Use of the House"

Three-year-old Billy's mother, being particular that he should not annoy the neighbors, would not permit him to go into their house unless on special invitation. So Billy was especially delighted when he was permitted to spend the whole morning with the ten-year-old boy next door, who was very fascinating to him in a thoroughly "grown-up" way. When he got ready to go home, he summoned all his manners. "Thank you for the house," he said, gratefully.

Colonizing Large Acreage

Towns Progress Thru Organizations and Co-operation

The story is told of a stage driver who was such an expert with his long whip that he was able to pick a horse fly off of a horse's ear with the whip, without touching the horse's ear. Passengers on his stage used to ask him often to give a demonstration of his skill.

Organization is but another word for co-operation. It has come to be the biggest word in the business world today. On all sides, business is organizing that it may better co-operate.

Co-operation is necessary for community development. Towns like Cameron must have the united effort and resource of everyone in them to make the best of their opportunities. Division and factions but divide the effort and resource and reduce the possibilities of success.

Cameron needs the co-operation of every man in it in the big program of community development that must be kept in mind if Cameron is to continue to progress.

Let's all get together and all work together and all pull for Cameron.
